The New ESSEX
A SIX

Essex Enclosed Car Comforts cost less than ever before

The price is £35 less than ever before. With this lower price you get an even more attractive coach body and a 6-cylinder motor built on the principle of the famous Hudson Super-Six.

In everything that counts for long satisfactory service at low cost the new Essex Six combines the best details from both Hudson and the former Essex Four.

You will like the new Essex for the nimble ease of its operation. Gears shift quietly. Steering is like guiding a bicycle. Its low centre of gravity gives greater comfort and safety at all speeds. Greater fuel economy is obtained. The car is lighter, longer and more roomy. It has in full those hidden values that keep Essex cars young. We invite you for a trial run. See how the Essex Six simplifies car-driving—what ideal transportation it provides.

First-class travel at third-class rates

MOTORING is a luxury, but not an expensive one if you own an Overland. An Overland is equivalent to first-class travel at third-class rates. That is why you see scores of new Overlands on the streets each day—the fact is daily becoming better known that any other car at about the same price looks insignificant and is insignificant beside this wonderful automobile. Its value is absolutely extraordinary! Call with some friends and have a look over the Overland. - - - - - - £220

WOMAN AND HER HOME.

A CRYING NEED.

IT has been said that if we want a thing badly enough we usually end by getting it. Probably we have all had reason to doubt the truth of this ambitious saying, and certainly at present the Dublin people must be extremely sceptical about accepting its truth.

How many hundreds of thousands of the citizens are united at present by one long-suffering "want"? And not only at present, but for some time past. Yet so far nothing has come of it. I refer to the want or need of taxi-cabs for hire in the principal streets of Dublin. Everybody wants them and knows that everybody else wants them, but that is about as far as we have gone or seem to be going.

We have been told repeatedly in the Press, so it must be true, that Dublin is to be inundated this summer with an extraordinary influx of visitors from all parts of the world. Already plans are being considered to provide comfort and attractions for them.

But all the attractions in the world will pall where there is not a sufficient and commodious means of progress provided.

Are the side-cars and ancient cabs of Dublin expected to cope with this surging mass of humanity that is about to descend upon the city in the hot, airless days of summer?

What sort of a spectacle will our streets present to eyes accustomed to the ordinary, common, everyday comfort of the taxi-cab as seen in other cities, far smaller and more inferior than our own?

Naturally they will draw comparisons. And it is quite unnecessary to demonstrate what these comparisons will be.

Let those who have sentimental fears for the abolition of ancient customs take comfort that the advent of the taxi-cab need not necessarily mean the total extinction of the side-car. There will surely be room for both, at any rate in this coming boom of the city's prosperity. Though the joy of side-car riding may have palled somewhat on the majority of Dublin citizens, it will surely prove a most attractive novelty to the stranger within our gates. So may rides on an elephant at the Zoo prove attractive and novel to those who have not before indulged in them. But if such rides are the only means of transit provided, they will very soon pall, and will turn a pleasurable excitement into an extremely irritable experience.

Much anxiety may be felt as to what would become of the Dublin jarvey if this universal blessing of the taxi-cab were to descend upon the Dublin streets as a permanency.

Much the same question must have been asked in the past with regard to the old-fashioned coachman when private motor cars sprang into popularity. There must have been hundreds and thousands of grumbling coachmen at that time trembling in their shoes. But did the mere fact of trembling coachmen stem the ever-encroaching tide of motor cars? Not for an instant. The coachman of the past had to adapt himself to circumstances. He gave up the handling of the reins for the handling of the wheel, and the Dublin jarvey will have to do the same.

There are many points in favour of the taxi. Not only does it cater for comfort and standard fares; it also brings the inestimable blessing of good health in its train by reason of its cleanliness on the streets of a crowded city. No city can afford to overlook this tremendous advantage if it has the real welfare of its citizens at heart.

At the present rate of progress it is quite possible that, when other cities are learning the gentle art of "gliding" as a common means of getting about, Dublin will then, and not till then, wake up, and, rubbing its eyes, will at last begin to think seriously of having taxi-cabs on its long-suffering streets.

Beautiful Hair
is every child's right

EXAMINE your children's hair. Is it dull and lifeless; too oily or too dry? Do the strands stick together and make it appear coarse and matted? And is it full of dandruff? All these things are evils which will in time entirely spoil the hair, making it brittle and causing it to fall.

A remedy should be applied at once. The right remedy is Ovo Pomade. A little Ovo rubbed in the scalp each day will soon make a difference. The hair will become soft and silky, each strand will become a separate glowing thread making the hair appear thicker than it really is, and adding greatly to the child's beauty. Also the scalp will be kept clean, soft and healthy. Get a tin to-day and see for yourself how quickly a change will come about.

PRODUCE AND FOOD.

CATTLE.

DUBLIN METROPOLITAN CATTLE, North Circular road, Thursday.—Notwithstanding the Easter auspices attaching to our live stock market to-day, trade in main was devoid of animation or stability. Lambs especially experienced a bad and limited demand and fell fully 10s. to 20s. per head in price, current rates for lamb being under value of mutton per lb. The variation in supplies showed a decrease of just 400 head of cattle and about 600 head increase in the ovine department, principally made up by lambs. Business for cattle and sheep was practically confined to home trade requirements. Few shippers about, their hands being largely tied by price limit, as current terms here for best qualities of stock figure much above those at the other side of water, irrespective of freights, insurance and other expenses. Notwithstanding the lateness of the season, there was a conspicuous absence of shorn sheep on market. New wool prices spoken of as 1s. 8d. to 1s. 9d. per lb.

	Numbers on Sale.	This week as compared with last.		Corresponding weeks of 1923.	1922.
Cattle	2,420	Decrease	396	2,844	2,049
Sheep and lambs	5,534	Increase	390	5,705	7,501
Veal calves..	8	Decrease	2	2	7

In absence of shipping competition, butchers had little opposition in securing the primer selections of bullocks and heifers, but the comparative scarcity of right class made it impossible to force any concession in prices. Tip-top qualities of bullocks, prices went 57s. 6d. to 60s. per cwt., and heifers, say, 59s. to 61s. and 62s. per cwt. Notwithstanding comparative scarcity, however, many excellent exhibits of cattle still uncashed at mid stage of market, and in forced sales owners who missed early market around 60s. had to accept 55s. to 56s. per cwt. from shippers, which appeared to be their extreme working limit. For good medium class cattle prices from 52s. to 55s. and 56s.; more ordinary descriptions, according to character, 40s. to 50s., say. In wind up of market really useful beasts could be purchased around 50s. to 52s. or 53s. per cwt. Fat bulls and cows proved a slow and slumpy business; prices perhaps 1s. to 3s. per cwt. under last day, and market difficult to sell up at that. Best quality bulls from 40s. to 42s. 6d. and 43s. per cwt.; others 32s. 6d. to 38s. per cwt. For fair to best quality beef cows, too, prices took a similar range.

The sheep market remains without actual change; supplies of sheep much narrower, numbers being augmented by influx of lambs. Prime fed mutton was looked for and readily placed at previous tip-top prices. But a decidedly quieter tone pervaded market for ordinary descriptions of hoggets, with a corresponding weakness in values. Owing to cold weather and heavy night frosts, sheep shearing much delayed, and not one lot of shorn sheep appeared on market, notwithstanding the lateness of season. Butchers continue to have a big rebate on prices of skins—viz., 16s. 6d. to 20s. and 21s. apiece. Prime qualities of mutton 12½d. to 14d. and 14½d. per lb.; plainer qualities 10d. to 1s., according to class; rams and rough ewes around, say, 9d. to 9½d. per lb. Of course, market to-day is too close to Easter to admit of heavy shipping, and consequently a number of dealers had already secured lambs off the land and shipped them in earlier stages of week. Consequently there was a disappointing sale for lambs here. The big number to be dealt with left many lots difficult to sell, more especially those of backward condition. Prices down fully 10s. to 20s. per head from last day's currencies. Best average lots made 60s. to 63s. and 65s. apiece; extra nice qualities around 70s., perhaps 72s. in fancy cases; small and thin lambs from 30s. to 45s. and 46s. apiece. Reckoning with those values, with good weight in lambs, prices may be considered a full 1d., perhaps 2d., per lb. under rates for mutton. It will be interesting in the circumstances to compare butchers' retail figures this week for lamb and mutton. A number of poor and medium class lambs returned unsold. Only a few veal calves on market, which rated much as before.

DUBLIN DAIRY CATTLE, North Circular road, Thursday.—Just 240 head of dairy cattle were offered on this market, being 55 in excess of last week's supply. Sales proved very slow and tedious for even the nicer and heavier grades of milchers. Shipping inquiry was tapped to some extent, in view of Easter holiday influences, but it is anticipated that the English inquiry for heifer milchers will be well maintained in the near future, and that the Scotch trade for heavy cows will soon show an appreciable improvement. Best classes of heavy milchers £27 to £30 and £32, ditto heifers £23 to £25 and £26, ordinary cows £20 to £25, small, etc., £14 to £18 and £19 each. Many cows failed to sell.

DUBLIN PIG MARKET, North Circular road, Thursday.—There were 1,110 head of swine penned for sale, being 67 fewer than previously. The attendance of buyers was not so good, several leading men being absent, notably in the Northern representation. Trade opened fairly active for choice bacon hogs inside, say, 12 to 15 or 16 stone weight, but soon afterwards slumped into an inanimate and cheaper groove. Exhibits above and below weights mentioned proved difficult to find customers for at uncertain rates. Small classes of pigs, especially, attracted discouraging attention, altogether apart from the question of price. Choice bacon and pork hogs 73/- to 76/- and 77/6 per cwt. Rarely was 80/- spoken of, even in fancy cases. Average run of hogs 62/6 to 72/6 per cwt. approximate dead reckoning. Coarse, etc., difficult to quote for.

GLASGOW MARKET REPORT, 16th April, 1924.—Hegarty and Kelly report good supplies of fat cattle in to-day's market. Bullocks and heifers met a steady demand at firm quotations. Bulls maintained recent currencies. Cows were scarce and made higher prices. Telegrams: Hegarty, Glasgow.—(Advt.)

YORK, Thursday.—Average entry sheep; very slow trade at a trifle less money. English and Irish cattle about the same as last week, with depression in trade at late rates, due chiefly to frosty weather. Smaller entry dairy cattle, with improved demand and slight advance on late rates.

BIRMINGHAM, Thursday.—Consignments of pigs continue on small scale owing to regulations and market closure, and in consequence the recent advance is well maintained although the weather has improved. Quotations for suitable selections:—Sizeable bacons 15/6, cutters 14/6 to 15/6, and sows 11/- per score, dead weight.

BRISTOL, Thursday.—Foot-and-mouth disease restrictions keep the market closed. In the country districts beef and mutton are in fair supply and steady demand, with no change in prices.

"It is curious to reflect that the hottest favourite among pipes gives the coolest smoke."

CITY-GRAMS by Finn E. Berg.

SMOKERS sometimes complain that their tobacco "smokes hot." The fault does not always lie with the tobacco however. Much depends upon the pipe, which should be made of fully matured briar root, and fashioned to provide a free draught and perfect combustion. That is why so many men to-day smoke City de Luxe Pipes. Made in 101 shapes. To be obtained from all the leading houses. Any difficulty in obtaining supplies should be reported to the Manufacturers, 38, Finsbury Square, London, E.C.2, who will be glad to forward the name of the nearest agent.

City de Luxe 5/6

C.L. 614
C.L. 488

C.L. 614. A thick bowled pipe but quite light, by virtue of its balance.

C.L. 488. A reading pipe with a long stem and a short mouthpiece.

Trade Enquiries: 38, Finsbury Sq., London, E.C.2.

The City de Luxe is also made Silver Mounted in Prince and Army shapes at 6/6.

Those to whom economy is a consideration and who prefer the old-fashioned natural briar, will be well suited with the City Pipe, Silver Mounted at 3/6 or Metal Mounted at 2/6

SCOUR IN CALVES

Sir,—Permit me, as an agriculturist, to make a few remarks concerning the awful malady called "Scour," so prevalent among cattle, and especially young calves, whereby the farmers of Ireland lose so much of them every year. As I peruse your veterinary columns, scarcely a week passes without some query on the disease. Well, last week a nom-de-plume under the title of "A Louth Man," wishes to hear of a cure for Scour in a six-weeks-old calf. He seems to think that cure cannot be effected. But I can say with emphasis that such a medicine has been invented and patented by Mr. Jones, Pharmaceutical Chemist, Doneraile, Co. Cork, AS WILL CURE ANY DESCRIPTION OF SCOUR, WHETHER OF LONG OR SHORT STANDING, IN ANY CLASS OF ANIMAL, EVEN CALVES FROM THREE DAYS OLD. I, for one, can testify as to its INFALLIBILITY after many experiences, and found after almost EVERY OTHER MEDICINE FAILED, THAT JONES'S SPECIFIC DID ITS WORK WITH RAPIDITY IN THE WORST CASES OF SCOUR.

And now I feel it my duty to lay before the farmers of Ireland the means whereby they may SAVE ANNUALLY HUNDREDS OF POUNDS which otherwise would go for naught. I can understand how it is with a great many people—they do not rely upon advertisements—they look upon them as what they would term catch pennies; but in this case it is quite the reverse, as the QUALITIES OF THIS WONDERFUL MEDICINE CANNOT BE TOO HIGHLY SET FORTH TO THE CATTLE REARING COMMUNITY OF THIS COUNTRY.

Should any doubt exist in the minds of the people as to its good, I will, with much pleasure, answer any letter addressed to me on the subject, and would account it only a trifle when compared with the gains it has brought me. Then let each afflicted breeder of cattle keep a PACKET OF THIS MARVELLOUS MEDICINE in his house, and he NEED NOT DREAD THE RAVAGES OF SCOUR AMONG HIS CATTLE, and will find at the year-end that he will have his pastures well stocked, and he will have something to meet his demands and maintain his household instead of having their bones mouldering in the clay and their hides off to the tanyard.

Well, I earnestly hope that my brother Louthman will profit by these few remarks, as also each and every farmer and reader of your valued and much-esteemed paper.

And now, dear Editor, I will thank you to insert this letter for the good of all your readers.—I am, yours faithfully, JOHN CHILDS.

Glenosheen, Kilfinane, Co. Limerick, May 3, 1896.

This remarkable letter appeared in a leading Dublin paper, with the following comment:—

We have much pleasure in thanking Mr. Childs for the information, and congratulate the patentee of this wonderful medicine on the amount of genius which he displayed in its discovery.—Editor.

CONNAUGHT.

POST OFFICE RAID CHARGE.—Patrick Nangle, shop assistant, Grattan street, Sligo, was committed for trial at Tuam, on a charge of having been concerned in a raid under arms on the post office at Glynsk, Ballymoe, on the night of April 29, 1923, when postal orders of the face value of £5 10s., stamps for £1 9s. 6d., and £1 cash were stolen. The postmaster said that the office was raided by six armed men, but that he could not identify any of them. His daughter said that she could identify Nangle, who was formerly a shop assistant in Castlerea. The accused man said that he was acting "on orders" on the occasion of the raid, and that he took no money. The postal orders were destroyed. He was allowed out on bail of £200 and two sureties of £100 each.

LEINSTER.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH ARSON.—Catherine Murphy was found guilty at Kilkenny Quarter Sessions of a charge of having on the 20th December last burned her home at Doringa, Goresbridge, with intent to defraud. The statement of the accused before her arrest was that the house was burned by armed and masked men, but the evidence given by her servant was that the accused woman told her to burn the house, and not to say anything about it, or no compensation would be paid. Witness sprinkled the place with paraffin oil, and set it on fire. The defendant was allowed out under the First Offenders' Act.

COURSING MEETING ENTERTAINMENT TAX.—The Secretary of the Wicklow Coursing Club was fined £50, mitigated to £12 10s., at the local Court for failing to stamp admission tickets to the coursing meeting held on November 8, 1923. It was argued for the defence that the amounts paid for admission were voluntary subscriptions. The club gave £25 to the Roman Catholic Church Improvement Fund, and lost £21 on the day.

HEALTHY DUNDALK.—The Sanitary Officer has reported to the Dundalk Urban Council that in March, 1920, there were 76 cases of infectious disease in the town; 1921, 60; 1922, 55; 1923, 50; and 1924, 33. The official added that, according to the report of the Registrar-General Dundalk was the healthiest town in the Free State.

DEATH FROM STARVATION.—Patrick Doyle, Bolinahaney, Ferns, Co. Wexford, an elderly farmer, was found dead in a field near his house, where he had lived alone. He had died, apparently, from starvation. No food was found in his house, but he had £5 in his possession. The Coroner did not consider an inquest necessary.

PUBLIC HEALTH PROSECUTION.—At Lucan District Court yesterday, Owen McCluskey, knacker, Leixlip, was summoned on a complaint that carcases of animals were allowed to decompose on his premises, which thereby caused a nuisance. The case was adjourned to enable the defendant to obtain legal assistance.

INTERFERENCE WITH SHERIFF.—For interference with the Sheriff in the execution of his duty, Patrick Kearney, farmer, of Ledwithstown, Co. Longford, was allowed out on three months' probation. "I would like the public to know," said the magistrate, "that any interference with the Sheriff, or any violence used towards him, will be dealt with severely in this Court."

BOATING AT GLENDALOUGH.—Attention has again been called to the necessity for an adequate supervision of boating and boats on Glendalough Lakes, in view of the expected influx of tourists this summer, and Rathdrum District Council has appointed a sub-committee to confer with the boat-owners.

MURDERS RECALLED.—In the claim for £2,000 compensation made at Monaghan on behalf of the infant of James Soraghan and his wife, who were murdered at Drumkilly, Co. Cavan, when the year-old baby was found in a pool of blood beside its mother, the judge said that the circumstances were most revolting. He made a total award of £165 3s., to be levied on surrounding electoral divisions.

TULLAMORE FIRE BRIGADE.—Tullamore Urban Council is paying £90 a year for the maintenance of a Fire Brigade. Hitherto, insurance companies have contributed, but they have now refused to make further payments, and it was suggested at a meeting of the Council that the Brigade should be abolished, but no definite action was taken.

LESS MONEY FOR TEACHING IRISH.—It is proposed to reduce the number of Irish teachers in King's County by a half, as the rate for teaching the Irish language has been reduced from a penny to a halfpenny.

TULLAMORE RATES DOWN.—Tullamore Urban Council has struck a rate of 15s. a reduction of 6d. on that of last year. The estimates provided for a rate of 16s., but the Council refused to accept this figure.

MUNSTER.

YOUGHAL FAIR DAY.—Youghal April Fair day falls on Easter Monday, but the Urban Council, after consulting the Irish Cattle Trade Association, postponed the Fair to the following day. At a meeting on Tuesday night telegrams were read from the South of Ireland Cattle Trade and the Victuallers' Associations objecting to the change. The Council decided to adhere to the new arrangement, as it had been advertised, but a resolution was adopted fixing all future fair days on the third Monday in each month, except when the day falls on St. Patrick's Day.

THE SEAL NUISANCE.—The Department of Fisheries has forwarded to the Youghal Urban Council a copy of a circular, in which it is stated that the Ministry of Defence agrees to any suitable arrangements that the Lismore Board of Conservators may be able to make for the destruction of seals. The Ministry is not in a position to supply a rifle or ammunition.

MISSING LETTERS.—Christopher Goggin, of Old Youghal road, a temporary postman, has been returned for trial at Cork on a charge of stealing postal packets, the property of the Postmaster-General.

SHOTS FIRED BY FISH POACHERS.—While on duty in the Ballyduff district of North Kerry a Civic Guard saw some men in a boat engaged in illegal net fishing in the river Cashen. When the Guard tried to pull the boat towards the shore by the rope attached to it three shots were fired by the men. The Guard took cover and the poachers got away.

BARRACKS NOT FOR HOUSING.—The Ministry of Defence has declined to accede to the request of the Kinale Urban Council that it should be allowed to convert the married quarters of the damaged military barracks into workmen's dwellings.

ULSTER.

DONEGAL COUNTY COUNCIL SECRETARYSHIP.—The Local Government Ministry has informed the Special Standing Committee of the Donegal County Council that the present condition of the administration of the county is such as to call for the early appointment of a suitable permanent executive officer as secretary, capable of exercising effective administrative control. The Ministry, it was added, was not disposed to interfere in regard to the age of the men appointed, but would observe that it did not seem likely that the Selection Board would favour the appointment of an official of over 45 years of age, unless by way of promotion of an experienced officer of some other local authority, and therefore suggested that in seeking applications from sources outside the local administration it might obviate subsequent disappointment of candidates if this limit was fixed. The Committee decided to make the appointment permanent, but decided to adhere to its ruling against the stipulation of an age limit.

DONEGAL TRUNK ROADS SCHEME.—At a meeting of the Special Standing Committee of the Donegal County Council, called to consider schemes in connection with the grant of £31,960 for the improvement of the roads in the county, a member said that the Department wanted schemes framed, not so much with the object of securing the best return from the economic point of view as to relieve unemployment. Schemes framed by the surveyors on the economic basis were accordingly rejected, and it was decided that the grant should be expended on the roads of the county as nearly as possible on the basis of an equal amount per mile, subject to the discretion of the County Surveyor regarding special needs of certain portions of roads.

CAVAN URBAN RATE.—Only Labour members attended a meeting of the Cavan Urban Council, when a rate of 13s. 9d. for the current year was adopted. The meeting passed a resolution protesting against the action of the business men in abstaining from attending. One member said that those members wished to put the onus of striking a rate on the Labour men.

BAILIFF ON HUNGER STRIKE.—James McCaffrey, sheriff's bailiff, Old Cross square, Monaghan, who is charged with false pretences, has refused to take food, and intimates that he will continue on hunger strike, says our Monaghan Correspondent.

SHOTS AT WITNESSES.—On the night preceding the hearing of a malicious injury claim at Monaghan Quarter Sessions three witnesses summoned to give evidence in a case of alleged hay burning were stopped on the road by an unknown man, who fired shots, but none of them took effect.

Edward Moy, of Glassagh, was fined £3 at Stranorlar on a charge of being in possession of a bottle of poteen.

Berehaven Union has adopted the tender for bread at 7¾d. for a 4lbs. loaf; beef at 6d. a pound, and mutton at 7½d.

Lena Hourigan, aged 6, of the Windmill, Limerick, who sustained severe injuries through her clothes catching fire, died on Thursday morning.

At Wexford District Court Mrs. Agnes Murphy, Galbally, Castlebridge, was fined 10s. for allowing six carcases of cattle to remain unburied in her farmyard.

While cycling home from Tintern, Miss Mary Caul, Ballygarvan, Co. Wexford, fell off her machine and died shortly afterwards from heart failure.

After a teaching career of more than forty years at Edmondstown (near Rathfarnham) Mr. and Mrs. Hegarty have been presented with a wallet of Treasury notes by the people of the district. Mr. Hegarty is a past President of the I.N.T.O.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

TESTS FOR CONTRACT MILK.—The Northern Ministry of Home Affairs, in a letter to the Lurgan Board of Guardians' meeting with regard to milk obtained by contract, points out that a stipulation requiring the milk to be of a certain standard affords no real guarantee. The only satisfactory method of determining the quality of milk is to have an analysis made from time to time.

THE DEATH OF MR. PARKES.—A verdict of accidental death was found at the inquest in Belfast on Thursday into the death of Mr. Adam J. Parkes, of 95 Oldpark road, whose car overturned while he was motoring from Carnmavey on Monday, April 7. Elizabeth Kirk, who said that Mr. Parkes offered her a seat in his car, told the Coroner that just before the accident Mr. Parkes exclaimed: "There's something wrong with the brakes, girl; we're going to be killed."

MOTOR CYCLE AND SIDECAR OVERTURN.—Mr. Christopher Young and his wife were motor cycling along Cregagh road, Belfast, when, in negotiating a turn, the vehicle upset and both were thrown out and injured. They were taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital.

COALISLAND LABOUR TROUBLES.—The strike at the Coalisland Collieries has been settled, and work was resumed on Thursday. The men employed on the sewerage and water works are still on strike.

£4,000 CLAIM DISMISSED.—A claim for £4,000 by Mr. R. A. Chalmers, Portrush, for the alleged malicious destruction of Craig dhu Varren House, Portrush, on January 1 last, was dismissed at Coleraine. The house, which was unoccupied, had, it was rumoured, said the applicant, been used by boys for meetings. The place was insured for £3,000.

"MASSEY AVENUE."—Some time ago it was decided to name the approach to the new Parliament Buildings at Stormont, "Massey avenue," in honour of the Right Hon. W. M. Massey, Prime Minister of New Zealand. This decision was conveyed by Sir James Craig to Mr. Massey, who replied:—"Your letter of 6th February received. Most warmly appreciate the honour conferred by proposal to name the approach to the new Parliament Buildings Massey avenue."

Lurgan Urban Council has fixed a rate of 11s. in the £ for the ensuing year, the same as last year.

Newcastle, Co. Down, Urban Council are to negotiate for the purchase of a field to be made into a recreation and sports ground.

A two acre field at Tully, Aughnacloy, which was sold fifteen years ago for £40, has changed hands at £135.

Mr. Patrick R. H. Anderson, of the Agricultural Office, Aberdeen, has been appointed Agricultural Instructor for the County Tyrone.

DUBLIN CATTLE TRADE.

THE QUESTION OF DROVERS' WAGES.

A crisis is likely to develop soon over a wages dispute in the Dublin cattle trade.

On April 5th, the Cattle Salesmasters' Association came to a decision regarding drovers' wages. Negotiations were opened immediately, but every attempt at conciliation failed, and a final conference was held last Tuesday.

As a result of this last conference, the Cattle Salesmasters' Association has passed the following resolution:—"That the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union be notified that after Saturday, 26th April, and commencing on Monday, 28th inst., the rates mentioned in schedule enclosed in our letter of 5th inst. shall come into operation."

In the Royal Oak, Hayes, a small spaniel, which has died, collected in the past 12 years £75 for hospitals and charity.

CO. MAYO MURDER CHARGE

ACCUSED MEN ADMITTED TO BAIL.

At Castlebar District Court on Wednesday, Mr. Garvey (Messrs. Garvey and Smith) applied to have John Fitzstephens, Anthony Ruane and two other men charged with the murder of Miss Annie Horkan, Straide, in March, 1922, and who have been returned for trial on the capital charge, admitted to bail.

Mr. Garvey said it was a great hardship to have those men so long in jail without trial, and at this time of year it was a particular hardship.

Inspector Casey, of the Civic Guard, said that the State Solicitor objected to bail being allowed.

The accused were admitted to bail in £1[illegible] each, with two sureties each of £200.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

PRESIDENT COSGRAVE AND BUSINESS MEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Reading from manuscript in the Dail and with full deliberation, Mr. Cosgrave, in his amazing list of charges against business men, included an accusation that their attitude towards the provision of houses for the working classes is one of obstruction. "Ten years ago," he said, "I remember in the Dublin Corporation asking for twopence in the £1 for building houses, and the business men objected and said that was not the time." Now, it is exactly ten years ago since, as Chairman of the Citizens' Housing League (a body which embraced many leading business men and representatives of the Dublin Trades Council), I appeared for the first, but not for the last, time at a housing inquiry in the City Hall, which is, no doubt, the occasion now referred to by Mr. Cosgrave. Upon that occasion my duty was to oppose certain reactionary and uneconomic schemes which Mr. Cosgrave himself was one of the chief promoters.

Six schemes were then before the Municipal Council, submitted by Mr. Cosgrave and certain of his colleagues, and four of the schemes were definitely supported by the Citizens' Housing League, subject to certain desirable improvements. These improvements were adopted in spite of Mr. Cosgrave's opposition, and the four schemes were proceeded with. Two schemes—Spitalfields and Glorney's Buildings—were opposed. In spite of our opposition, Mr. Cosgrave succeeded in getting the Spitalfields scheme approved, and it remains to-day a striking example of "how not to do it." The other scheme—Glorney's Buildings—was rejected. Why? Because the Citizens' Housing League, at their own expense, produced plans and proposals for a comprehensive scheme on virgin soil at Marino, which was intended to serve as an example of what might be accomplished by modern methods. Having ridiculed those proposals, Mr. Cosgrave subsequently saw the error of his ways, and he is to-day financing the Marino scheme through Dublin Corporation. The Citizens' Housing League held and expressed emphatically the view that, whatever financial sacrifice might be involved, it was the bounden duty of the citizens to face earnestly and without delay the evil conditions of housing in the city, and allow no obstacle to obstruct reform.

I regret that it should be necessary to remind Mr. Cosgrave of these facts, but I hope the reminder may serve to make him realise that similar criticisms of his Railway Bill from business men may be equally helpful in securing a sound and progressive result. He may be—I think he is—as shortsighted in his railway policy of to-day as he was in his housing policy ten years ago. That he should take advantage of the high position which he occupies to misrepresent business men as a class, and excite public hostility against them, because they have the hardihood to apply independent criticism to pet schemes of legislation which they regard as crude and unworkable is a line of action, if one may venture to say so, which will not enhance his own reputation or win laurels for the Administration of which he is the present head.—Yours, etc.,

IRISH TRADE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—It has been reported to us that the Committee of Management of a Western mental hospital, in placing its annual contracts, gave its order for flour to an English firm of millers through a local agent, though for years past Irish millers have supplied the needs of the Committee, giving every satisfaction. There was, we are told, no difference in price or quality between the Irish-milled flour and the English product. The annual consumption in the institution, supported by public funds, is stated to be about 200 tons. Every ton of flour milled in Ireland circulates thirty shillings in wages among the workers engaged in the actual milling process, exclusive of carters, outdoor workers, and office and managerial staffs, so that an institution using 200 tons of flour per annum is guaranteeing employment to at least two mill-workers. Surely a body supported by Irish public money is in honour and equity bound to ensure that these workers be employed in Limerick or Dublin, Lucan or Belmont, rather than in Liverpool or Montreal?

In January of this year, according to the admirable trade and shipping statistics compiled by Mr. John Hooper, the Director of the Statistical Department, the twenty-six counties imported 16,466 tons of flour. The loss in wages alone in this one item, in this one month, is, in round figures, £25,000. At an average wage of £3 per week this sum would provide employment for 2,000 workers in the flour-milling trade alone. In addition, the valuable offals needed by farmers for cattle-feeding are lost to the country when imported flour is purchased instead of Irish-milled flour, while the withdrawal from circulation as wages of so large an amount detrimentally affects all sections of the Irish population. Workers in foreign countries are provided with employment while the bread is literally taken out of the mouths of the Irish people, who alone are called on to pay rates and taxes for the upkeep of the public institutions whose committees of management, in some cases at least, are so indifferent to the economic needs of the country.

A short time ago I had the advantage of discussing the question of wheat versus flour imports with an important official of the Canadian Government. He informed me that he was sent abroad to discover fresh markets for Canadian-milled flour, and he was much interested in the prospects of the Irish market. I pointed out that from every point of view it was to Ireland's interest to import the wheat she required and rigorously to exclude foreign-milled flour, which deprived us not only of wages, but of feeding stuffs as well. He frankly admitted that that would be his point of view if he were an Irishman, and that, as a matter of fact, it was the standpoint of his Government, which was very desirous of extending the market for flour, but was leaving the marketing of wheat to the ordinary commercial channels, if not, indeed, discouraging its export.

At a time when unemployment is so tragic a feature of Irish life—Mr. Cosgrave admitting that the unemployed number 80,000, the Ministry of Industry and Commerce confessing to only 30,000, and from figures carefully estimated by this Association the actual number most probably approaching 150,000—there should be no unnecessary importation whatever. Our experience, however, is that never was there such an orgy of importation, and that only by legislative action can Irish industries be safeguarded, protected or encouraged. The problem of unemployment cannot be solved except by industrial development, and industrial development can only be brought about by giving Irish goods a fair field and the preferential treatment which every country in the world affords, as a matter of course, to its native industries.—Yours, etc.,

THE FILM CRISIS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—It is quite obvious, from reports which are appearing in the Press, that a crisis is impending in the film trade, which, if it is brought about, will result in a great deal of additional unemployment in the Free State. One would have imagined that a paternal Government had enough unemployment on its hands and that Irish industries had suffered sufficiently in the past twelve months without its deliberately courting fresh disaster. It seems, however, very much as if the old tag, Quem deus vult perdere prius dementat, is once again true.

Is the Government really under the delusion that the film trade is a kind of inexhaustible gold mine? If so, it may take it, from one who has very intimate knowledge, that it is under a very grave delusion. There was a time when both picture-houses and renting firms made a good deal of money. That, however, was some years ago, before import duties, entertainment tax and general commercial unsettlement came on the scene. This golden period is long since past and done with. The Government collects, in the shape of entertainment tax, a very considerable sum of money each year—something over £200,000, I believe—and it is very probable that Government departments fallaciously argue that, as this large sum is collected for them by the picture-house proprietors, the profits of the said happy possessors of a "movie show" are correspondingly great. If so, they are entirely wrong in their conclusions. They forget that every member of the public who enters the house is taxed and the tax passed on to the Government, whether the house is making a profit or not. One instance will suffice to drive this point home. In this particular case the Government collected from the picture-house in question over £4,000 in entertainment tax, and in the same year the house itself paid its shareholders no dividends, its directors no fees, and even then showed a loss.

There are throughout the country many cases of this kind in varying degrees of economic injustice. The sooner the Government arranges that a round table conference is held to adjust these unfair and inequitable burdens the sooner will the film industry, for the first time for some years, have a fair chance of settling down into being a steady contributor of trade not only to the revenue of the State, but to the public pleasure and amusement, and an active, healthy influence throughout the country for the complete restoration of peace and good-will.—Yours, etc.,

ALIEN SETTLERS IN CANADA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Currency has been given to an isolated statement that last year 1,258 Germans settled in Canada, and 524 during the first two months of the present year. It is reassuring to know that during the eleven months, April 1st, 1923, to February 29th last, no fewer than 67,036 people from these islands found new homes in the Dominions. There is thus no immediate fear that aliens are appropriating the Briton's birthright.—Yours, etc.,

FISHING IN THE FREE STATE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—While on a visit in the West I sent a salmon by the Midland Great Western Railway, consigned to London. Would it be believed that I had to pay twopence Customs duty and a further penny for a form, which I had to fill up in duplicate? I enclose a notice handed to me by the railway setting out the charge. Their freight charges are high enough without this addition of threepence to help to kill an industry.—Yours, etc.,

LUCAN TRAMS.

BETTER AND CHEAPER SERVICE.

Yesterday, with the introduction of a new time table, there came into operation on the Dublin and Lucan Electric Railway a revised list of fares which the travelling public will find to their advantage. The line from Conyngham road terminus at the Park Gate to Lucan, with its well-known spa, has always been a popular means of conveyance from the city to the country, and especially at holiday seasons the trams to Lucan are in great demand. The scenery along the route in favourable weather has a rural charm peculiarly its own, with a beauty enhanced by the softly flowing Liffey, about which so much has recently been heard in connection with electric power development.

This company has introduced modern improvements in their cars, raising the standard of comfort. There is only one class for passengers. What was formerly third-class accommodation has been, or is being, brought into keeping with what used to be first-class. Cushions are provided, and the only difference between the two compartments is that one is reserved for those who smoke and the other for those who do not smoke. This is one of the innovations on the line.

Another improvement is a more frequent service, cars being run every half-hour in the afternoons, Sundays included. The first car from Dublin on week-days, as is shown in the advertisement published to-day, leaves at 7.45 a.m., and cars follow at 8.45, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30, 12.30, and every half-hour till 7 p.m., and then every hour until 10 o'clock. On Saturdays there are cars also at 7.30 p.m. and 8.30 p.m. The week-day services from Lucan are at 7.55 a.m., 8.40, 9.25, 10.25, 11.25, 12.25, 1.25, and every half-hour till 7.55 p.m., with additional cars on Saturdays at 8.25 p.m. and 9.25 p.m. The Sunday cars leave Dublin at 10 o'clock, and every half-hour till 9 p.m., the latest car being at 10 p.m. Cars leave the Spa on Sundays at 9.55, 10.45, 11.25, and every half-hour until 9.55 p.m.

The extent of the reduction of fares can best be illustrated by a comparison. Formerly the first-class return fare from Dublin to Lucan Spa was 2s. 6d. The return fare now for the same journey is 1s. 6d. Return fares have been reduced proportionately for all stations. The distance from Dublin to Lucan being about 10¼ miles, it will be realised that the fare is very moderate indeed, and the board of directors and their secretary, engineer and manager, Mr. D. McDowall Grosart, A.M.I.E.E., are to be congratulated on their enterprise, which will, doubtless, do much to secure a greater popularity and patronage for their railway.

ART IN ADVERTISING.

VALUE OF THE ILLUSTRATED ANNOUNCEMENT.

The phrase "Every picture tells a story" was absolutely true in advertising, said Mr. F. J. Brandt, in the course of an address on "Art in Advertising" at a meeting of the Publicity Club of Ireland in Dublin on Thursday. While the printed text was indispensable, in many cases it was not read until the eye of the reader was attracted by an illustration.

Mr. Brandt declared that he liked best such illustrations as indicated the benefits to be derived from the use of the article advertised. Too much illustration was not desirable. An advertisement should not be crowded, and it should have a good margin of white space around it. That was the kind of advertisement which paid best in the long run.

Mr. W. E. Magill presided.

THEFT FROM CLOAKROOM.

CHARGE AGAINST KINGSTOWN RAILWAY PORTER.

Thomas O'Neill, a railway porter, was charged at Kingstown Police Court on Thursday with stealing a number of articles from a trunk at the cloakroom of Kingstown Railway Station. The articles were valued at £53. O'Neill was further charged with having articles to the value of £38 illegally in his possession.

A ticket collector said that he took the trunk from the luggage van to the parcel office and handed it to the clerk in charge. It was not damaged.

William Evans, the cloak room clerk, said that he had not examined the trunk. In reply to Mr. Lupton, [illegible], the magistrate, he said that he had no instructions to examine incoming parcels. The claim in respect to damage or loss of a parcel or article left at a cloakroom was limited to £5.

Mr. Lupton said that this was the first cloak room he had heard of that took in trunks and other articles without proper examination as to their condition.

The accused was remanded until Wednesday.

Wincarnis rapidly builds new Vitality after Influenza

The after effects of Influenza are more dangerous than Influenza itself. Because, after Influenza, the vitality is so exhausted that the system is particularly liable to an attack of the deadly pneumonia.
You should be particularly careful to ward off pneumonia by restoring the exhausted vitality and by keeping the body surcharged with new strength.
Countless thousands of Influenza victims have proved that
WINCARNIS
"The Wine of Life."
possesses a wonderful four-fold power not only in overcoming the intense weakness which Influenza leaves behind, but also in rapidly building up a store of new vitality to prevent pneumonia getting a hold upon the system.
And the reason Wincarnis possesses this four-fold power is because Wincarnis is a Tonic, a Restorative, a Blood-builder and a Nerve-invigorator—all in one.
Thus Wincarnis promotes new strength; new, rich, red blood; new nerve force and new vitality—all at one time.
That is why over 10,000 Doctors have recommended Wincarnis.

At a recent meeting of the Kerry County Committee of Agriculture a resolution was adopted directing the attention of the Government to the plight in which farmers find themselves through being left at the mercy of profiteering "rings" and combines. The Government is called on to take action, so that the farmers may be given their fair share of the profits arising from their industry.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

A raid was carried out early yesterday morning on Churchtown Post Office, on the Free State side of the Derry-Donegal border. The robbers forced an entrance through a window and carried off £200 in money and postal orders. It is believed that the raiders came from Londonderry City.—(Page 8.)

The Most Rev. Denis Kelly, D.D., Bishop of Ross, died yesterday in a private nursing home in Dublin.—(Page 7.)

At Thursday's meeting of the Grangegorman Mental Hospital Joint Committee it was reported that armed men had raided the Portrane Mental Hospital, held up and locked up the head night attendant, and decamped with his keys.—(Page 8.)

At a meeting of the Dublin Port and Docks Board on Thursday Senator James Moran (Chairman) said that the Government's Railways (Unification) Bill was causing grave concern to members of the Board.—(Page 8.)

President Cosgrave and Mr. O'Higgins leave Dublin to-morrow for the Boundary Conference, which will be held next Thursday in London.—(Page 7.)

When Patrick Joseph Coonan, who accused himself of the shooting of Private Aspinall at Queenstown, some days ago in Drogheda, was charged at Cork with the crime, he declared that it was all nonsense. He was remanded for a week.—(Page 8.)

ABROAD.

A £130,000,000 cinema combine is contemplated in the United States.—(Page 7.)

An inter-Allied Conference on the experts' reports is to be held in London after Easter, according to a Belgian paper.—(Page 7.)

Moscow fears the breakdown of the Anglo-Russian Conference in London.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At Folkestone Southern Lass won the Folkestone Steeplechase.—(Page 10.)

The Railways Bill.

Our objections to the Free State Government's Railways Bill are both political and economic, and President Cosgrave's elaborate defence of the Bill has not removed them. We give first place to the political objection—which is that the Bill constitutes a new and formidable obstacle in the path of Irish unity. The President seems to be careless of this grave danger. He told the Dail that the Government's Bill excludes all the Northern railways because, if such railways were involved now, troublesome readjustments would become necessary after Ireland's "inevitable unity" had been attained. Unity is not "inevitable," and we fear that it will not be won at all if the Railways Bill becomes law in its present form. Let us state the facts plainly. The existing railway system is the main link between the two Irish States. If it disappears, separate systems will be established in Ireland, and, once established, will remain. It is well known to the authors of this Bill that the London, Midland and Scottish Company could absorb every mile of railway in the Six Counties to-morrow with the consent and approval of the Northern Government. If the Saorstat expels the Great Northern Railway, this arrangement may be concluded with little delay. Thereafter the Northern railways would be an integral part of the British system, looking Eastward instead of Southward; and Northern trade would be developed by the greatest railway system in the world at the expense of the Free State. Against that crystallisation of partition there could be no appeal.

Even the most efficient railway system in the Saorstat would be a poor recompense for a permanent divorce between the two parts of Ireland. This Bill, however, will not give the Saorstat an efficient or economic railway system. President Cosgrave failed to show that the Bill, by abolishing competition, will not injure the Port of Dublin; and he failed to show that it will reduce working expenses—and, therefore, fares and freight charges—in any appreciable way. At Thursday's meeting of the Dublin Port and Docks Board the Chairman, Senator Moran, said that a special committee of the Board, which had been studying the Bill's proposals, regarded them "with growing apprehension." The Bill must hurt the trade of Dublin in two ways. Traffic which now reaches the West of Ireland through Free State ports will be diverted to Northern railways; and, in spite of the President's assurances, the Bill contains no real safeguard against the continued and increased diversion of Dublin and Midland traffic to the Rosslare route. No provisions in any bill can restrict the exercise of interested and dominant "influence" to unconsigned traffic alone. The promise of large economies and reduced rates under the Bill is entirely vain, and President Cosgrave made no attempt to show how they could be made. The only effective economy could be found in a drastic lowering of railway wages, which are considerably higher than in Great Britain. Who believes that the Free State Government will insist upon an economic scale of wages for its unified railways?

The President tried to prove that the inclusion of the Dublin and South-Eastern Railway was an absolutely necessary condition of the scheme of unification. We think that none of his arguments will survive intelligent criticism in the Committee stage of the Bill. There is no reason at all why this company should not provide effective competition by a renewal of its running powers to Limerick. There is no substance in the statement that it could not reduce its rates pari passu with the unified companies if it were excluded from the scheme. As a matter of fact, it has given a lead—still unfollowed—to the other companies in the reduction of goods and passenger rates; and we may suppose that, if it were allowed to retain its identity, it would be prepared to guarantee at least an equality of rates with the unified companies. We return, however, to the essential point. The Dublin and South-Eastern Railway has assumed suddenly a critical importance in the national scheme of things. If it is absorbed in a unification of the Saorstat railways, the divorce of the two Irish railway systems will be complete, and the door will be banged and barred upon the prospect of Irish unity, whether political or economic. If the Dublin and South-Eastern Railway retains its independence, that door will be left ajar. The vital element of competition will not be exorcised from the railway traffic of the Saorstat. A link, however slender, will remain between the railway systems of the two States which will keep alive the possibility of a national "readjustment" at a later stage. In a word, partition will not have been made inevitable and permanent.

The Folly of Greed.

The price of living in England continues to fall with gratifying steadiness. On March 1st the index figure stood at 78 per cent. above the 1914 level. During the month it fell by five points, with the result that it is now only 73 per cent. higher than it was ten years ago. Food prices alone show an even more remarkable drop. They fell by nine points during the month, and now stand at 67 per cent. in excess of pre-war prices. Here in Ireland, unfortunately, we are clinging still to war standards, and the establishment of the Free State seems to have given "profiteering" a new lease of life. Visitors to Ireland for Easter are commenting widely on the cost of living in Dublin. Food prices, they say, are at least 25 per cent. higher than they are in London and other big English towns. For a meal in a restaurant, which can be obtained in London for two shillings or half-a-crown, the wretched Dubliner must pay three or four shillings, and everything else seems to be proportionately dear. Apart from the effect of this condition of affairs on the people who live in the country, it is bound to make an extremely bad impression on those visitors who are likely to come to the Free State during the summer months. If local prices are maintained at their present level, we fear that the majority of our visitors will decide to cut their stay in Ireland as short as possible. In London special arrangements are being made for the huge crowds which are expected to arrive for the British Empire Exhibition. Competition is extremely keen, and hotels and restaurants are vieing with one another to attract custom. Prices, consequently, are bound to be reduced to the lowest possible margin of profit, and visitors to Wembley will find that they can satisfy their wants at a reasonable figure. In Ireland, and particularly in Dublin, where accommodation is limited so strictly, demand will be far greater than supply, and, despite the efforts of the Aonach Tailteann Council, board and lodging of every kind are certain to be at a premium. Exorbitant prices will be fatal. If the people of Dublin try to enrich themselves unduly at the expense of their visitors, they will defeat their own end and destroy the tourist traffic of the future. The cost of living in the Free State is far too high already. Wages certainly play some part in its maintenance at such a pitch, but the rapacity of traders and middlemen is chiefly to blame. Every effort should be made during the next few months to bring our scale of charges approximately to the English standard. Otherwise our visitors will leave the Free State in disgust and our traditional reputation for hospitality will suffer a heavy loss.

Help for Soldiers.

On Thursday the Irish Branch of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society held its annual meeting. The Irishmen who fought in the Great War have found in this Society a friend that never fails to act with sympathetic efficiency. During the past year 1,115 ex-Service men received help from the Dublin office in the form of money or clothing, and 3,201 were given the benefit of advice that they could not have obtained elsewhere. The War Office and various British organisations have sought the Society's aid, and through its good offices have been able to get in touch with men in this country. In addition to an expenditure of £1,111, the Society was able to give much timely aid in cases of special emergency, including sickness and threats of eviction. The Tuberculosis Committee dealt with 252 cases and contributions were made to the burial expenses of thirty old soldiers. The Employment Bureau found work for 147 men, bringing the total number placed in employment since its institution in 1916 to 5,859. Experience has resulted in a greater measure of efficiency and many of the evils of overlapping have disappeared. In the country districts the work has been done not less faithfully than in the City of Dublin. A report from Tipperary shows that the need never has been more urgent there than it is now, and the situation is the same in other places. Men who are entitled to pensions from the British Government find difficulty in getting recognition of their claims, and without the timely help of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society their hardship would be extreme. The ubiquitous problem of unemployment and the general disorganisation of trade aggravate the ex-soldiers' troubles. The Irishmen who fought for the world's freedom deserve well of all classes of their fellow-countrymen. In a large majority of cases they are good citizens, peaceful and patient; and the time has come to bury the bitterness of past years. It is fortunate, however, that during their days of sorest trial these men have been able to find a true friend in the Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society.

Imperial Migration.

Emigration from the British Isles has declined during recent years. The total number of emigrants for last year was 133,000, and was below the figure for 1913. The report of the Overseas Settlement Committee for 1923 was issued three days ago. This Committee has assisted 44,269 emigrants to various parts of the Empire, under the provisions of the Empire Settlement Act of 1922. Over 31,000 of this number have gone to Australia, slightly under 7,000 to New Zealand, and about 6,000 to Canada. The total number of emigrants to Canada and Newfoundland during the year was more than 75,000, and to Australia 44,000 less; and the United States were the destination of 84,000 British emigrants. Both the home authorities and the Governments of the Dominions are anxious to stimulate migration of people of a suitable type. A considerable amount of assistance, both financial and otherwise, is offered to men who have left the British fighting services and are sufficiently young to be able to adapt themselves to new conditions. There is plenty of work to be done in developing the oversea possession of the British Crown, and the Dominion authorities are anxious to get immigrants who will maintain or improve, rather than lower, their high standard of manhood. England can spare men, since she is unable to support her increasing population. The Overseas Settlement Committee is particularly desirous of attracting the attention of young people to the possibilities of emigration. Five hundred and fifty thousand juveniles of both sexes come upon the labour markets in Great Britain every year, and it is impossible to absorb this number. The overseas countries of the Empire will have a notable opportunity this year, at the Wembley Exhibition, of showing what attractions they can offer to the youth of the Mother Country.

EASTER MEDITATIONS.

MORTIFICATION AND RENEWAL.

(SPECIALLY CONTRIBUTED.)

Christians as a whole do not deal with themselves as hardly as St. Paul would have them do. "Mortify (lit., make dead) your members which are upon the earth," "If by the Spirit ye do mortify (lit., make to die) the deeds of the body, ye shall live." They are the words of one who lived strenuously and disciplined himself severely, and so became a giant of the Faith.

To-day, however, self-pity or self-love excuses the bearing of the Cross. A discipline so harsh has no place in the worldly man's scheme of things, with the result that the Christian stature is in danger of becoming a dwarfish thing, stunted in development, limited in its activities. Yet these sayings of the Apostle are closely connected with the order of progress which is of the essence of the Christian life—through self-abasement to joy, through suffering to glory, self-realisation through self-denial, the Resurrection life after the agony of Good Friday.

Lent, with its call to know ourselves, is passing. Have we heard that call to correct distortions in our vision, to re-set our sense of spiritual values? Many have, no doubt, conscientiously tried, with God's help, to deepen their sense of penitence, to remove what may have hindered the efficacy of their service, to obtain a further glipmse of things unseen. For them the reward is in that "newness of life" which is imparted to those who faithfully endeaevour to keep in touch with the Source of all life.

There are others for whom Lent has had no meaning. They have asked for joy without sorrow, ease without struggle, the crown without the Cross, and have found no help in religion for such a quest: so they have asked it of the world; the world answers—and disappoints. They are looking for something that cannot be had—life without death, the prize without the "keeping-under" of the body.

When the boon which they crave is withheld they turn into religious cynics. They refuse to take anything spiritual seriously. The only Calvary they know on Good Friday is a bunker on some golf course, and this they endeavour to avoid with might and main; or they will be "tuning-in" their latest scientific toy when, as sons of God, they should be attuning their hearts to the music of the great Festival of Renewed Life.

Such people refuse to encourage that most useful form of worship—worship in the congregation; they allow teaching and ideals, anti-human and anti-Christian, to be propounded without uttering a syllable to counteract this devilish attempt to wipe our hard-won civilisation off the face of the earth.

These things should not be in the ranks of those sworn to the Christian allegiance. It is the duty of a believer to overcome the world, and Easter reminds us that the greater victory is theirs who have won the lesser victory over themselves, and, being "dead unto sin," have become "alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord."

NEW LONDON PLAYS.

"OUR NELL" AT THE GAIETY THEATRE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Friday.

One of the most romantic personalities in history, Nell Gwynne, has been chosen as the principal figure around which Louis N. Parker and Reginald Arkell have written their new musical play, "Our Nell," which has been produced at the Gaiety Theatre. They have not dealt lightly with the figure of Nell; they have twisted it out of all recognition, and made the sprightly little orange seller a heavily lachrymose character. I must confess that Miss Jose Collins (provided with a handsome yellow wig for the occasion) never suggested to my mind the audacious human little Drury lane girl. She, however, sang her songs and duets with spirit—she had several excellent numbers provided for her—and at the final curtain received one of those overwhelming receptions, which an admiring public usually accord her.

The music by Harold Fraser-Simpson and Ivor Novello is quite charming, and occasionally appropriate to the period. One or two old English airs have been very skilfully adapted, and there are some jolly May dances in the right spirit. Most of the songs provided for Nell are sentimental, but that is probably a concession the librettists have been compelled to make to satisfy the popular demand for sentiment at all costs in a musical comedy heroine.

Faith Bevan and Robert Michaelis had an exquisite little duet, entitled "Love Me a Little Bit," and there is a rousing song, "Our England," which the audience simply loved.

Arthur Wontner, in a remarkable make up as Charles II., had one of the dullest parts he has ever played. It was not his fault that he made the figure of the Monarch so solemn and lifeless—the authors had not provided him with a single witty line.

The play was beautifully staged and dressed, and Robert Evett, who is responsible for the production, has managed to introduce some interesting scenes of old London.

There is very little humour in "Our Nell," although Walter Passmore and Miles Malleson make the most of what there is. A really excellent study of an old soldier is contributed by Reginald Bach.

LONDON LETTER.

GOOD FRIDAY IN LONDON.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

The weather of yesterday and to-day—Good Friday—has been delightful, more particularly the warmth of the pleasant breeze which marked this afternoon. After the past weeks of gloom and sunlessness it was not surprising that everybody who could get out was taking the air. Motor cars and bicycles were to be seen in streams on every main road and thoroughfare. At nine o'clock I stood on the side walk of a main road in Kent, and I counted one hundred cars passing in less than five minutes. Mixed up with the cars were many motor cycles and bicycles. Only now and again was there a horse drawing a conveyance. Many of the cars had baggage as well as passengers, and the occupants were evidently off for some days.

Apparently nearly all London came to a belated decision to take a holiday yesterday. There had been fewer bookings than usual at the seaside resorts for the Easter holidays, due probably to the unpleasant weather conditions and the uncertainty whether the belated sunshine would arrive in time for the holidays. Yesterday, however, there was a change, and thousands of telegrams must have been sent for rooms to be reserved. At the tourist agencies a busy state of affairs was noticeable. Preliminary indications had not pointed to a great rush away from London, but yesterday's business was on a large scale. The general rule for short distance excursions for a day or half a day is double journey for single fare, while for long distance trips extending over the week-end the rate is single fare and a third for return ticket. To judge by the activity at Euston, the bookings for Ireland and other places covered by the London, Midland and Scottish system were heavy, and many of the trains were run in duplicate. Trips to Killarney have been revived by the Great Western Company after a suspension of ten years, and yesterday's bookings were on a scale which promises well for the revival of Irish tourist traffic during the coming summer.

Station Scenes.

The scenes at the London railway stations are always remarkable at holiday times, but I think yesterday must have eclipsed everything. At Victoria and Charing Cross the boat trains had to be repeated several times, and even they could not accommodate every would-be passenger. This reminds me that those who suffered inconvenience in the crowd yesterday will be glad to know that the railways are considering a project which will give considerable relief. It is proposed to run boat trains directly from the North of England to the Channel ports, so that passengers can entrain at Manchester, Liverpool, or Glasgow, and proceed directly to Folkestone. It is not a matter that can be done speedily; for the big express engines of the Northern lines would not be suitable for the Southern, and many alterations would be necessary. The improvement, however, is certain.

London Attractions.

In London to-day the religious Services were extremely well attended, and in the afternoon sacred concerts at the Albert Hall, Queen's Hall and Crystal Palace proved attractive. It was a lovely day for outdoor pursuits, and many thousands of people took trips to the popular holiday resorts near London, served by the underground railway system, which includes the omnibuses. This system carried no fewer than sixteen million passengers during the Easter holiday period of last year.

The Prime Minister.

The Prime Minister is going down to York to speak at the annual Conference of the Independent Labour Party this week-end, and it is said that he expects rather heavy weather while there. The policy which he has steadily pursued since he came into office is much too moderate for the extremists of the Independent Labour Party, and they will not hesitate to tell him as much. Mr. Macdonald is prepared to meet any attack and to justify his line of policy, nor will he allow himself to be deflected in any way from the path which he has marked out for himself. He will receive support from the moderate section of the party, and, though an attempt may be made to induce him to take a more extreme line in his policy, it is most unlikely that the attempt will come to anything.

The Liberals.

The Liberals seem to be very nervous over the suggestion that they are all divided. The chief Liberal Whip has issued a statement suggesting that the reports of the recent meeting are misleading. This had to be said, since there is no other possible line; but it does not prevent the Liberals who are now away on holiday from considering their position seriously. Many of them viewed with misgivings the steps which led to the Labour Party's forming a Government, and after their experiences of that Government they remain of the same opinion. It is understood that the Hon. F. E. Guest, who is to speak to-morrow in his constituency, will announce that he considers that the time has come to make a stand against a Socialist programme, and that he will appeal for the fusion of both Conservative and Liberal votes on this issue. What Mr. Guest is prepared to say openly a number of Liberals are saying among themselves. Mr. Lloyd George once again may have a chance of leading a National Liberal Party, but this may not be the opportunity which he is seeking.

Two Schools.

The indefinite attitude of Liberals as a party in the House of Commons has been due to the presence of two schools of thought. There are still some old-fashioned members who cannot get away from the idea that the Labour Party is the left wing of their own movement, and any continuous opposition to the Government would drive them away from Liberalism. These members would co-operate with the Government on every possible occasion, but the majority of the Liberal members agree with Mr. Asquith and Mr. Lloyd George that the time has arrived when a more independent line should be taken against the Government.

Liberal-Labourism.

The policy which formerly paraded under the banner of "Liberal-Labourism" is stronger in the constituencies than at Westminster. Local associations of a hyphenated character were formed in many parts of the country, and have continued in existence throughout the political upheaval which completely eliminated the term "Liberal-Labour" from politics. In most cases their activities were always more of a social than political character, and the main point upon which the members were united was the Irish Home Rule question. In following a mild policy at Westminster the Liberal leaders have been trying to steer a course which would not alienate the "Liberal-Labour" vote in constituencies where it is of consequence. Sooner or later the breach between the two parties must be complete, and whispers are already being heard at the National Liberal Club concerning the presence of Labour leaders there.

The Earl of Derby, who is indisposed, was stated to be slightly better last night. His lungs have quite recovered, but the facial erysipelas from which he suffers is responding very slowly to medical treatment.

THREE LONDON CONFERENCES.

BOUNDARY ON THURSDAY.

IRISH DELEGATES.

REPARATIONS & RUSSIA.

BUSY TIME FOR BRITISH PREMIER.

Three conferences of outstanding importance are to be staged in London after Easter :—

The Anglo-Russian Conference.

The Boundary Conference.

An Inter-Allied Conference on Reparations.

The first is already opened; the second has been called for Thursday; and, according to a Belgian source, the third is to take place after the Easter holidays.

BELGIAN REPORT.

CONFERENCE ON EXPERTS' FINDINGS.

BRUSSELS, Friday.

Discussing the possibility of a meeting of the heads of the Allied Governments to discuss the experts' plan, the National Belge to-days says, notwithstanding the denials issued in London and Paris, we understand that there will be an inter-Allied Conference in London after the Easter holidays, at which British, French and Belgian Ministers will discuss the experts' report and the possibility of its being adopted as the basis of a reparations settlement.

Belgium would be represented by MM. Theunis and Hymans, Premier and Foreign Minister respectively, and France by M. de J. Venel, Minister of Public Instruction, and M. Loucheur, Minister of Commerce. Doubtless Mr. Macdonald will preside over the Conference.—(Reuter.)

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Friday.

Important action by the Reparations Commission yesterday brings the new attempt to arrive at a settlement with Germany definitely beyond the preliminary stage, to a point at which it should soon be possible to judge of the chances of its success or failure.

The Committee decided unanimously to send the Experts' report to the Governments concerned, in order that the plans proposed may be brought into operation without delay, and to ask Germany to submit to them as soon as possible the decrees intended to secure the complete execution of these plans.

They formally approved and recommended to the Governments the conclusions in the report which come within their own jurisdiction, and thus by inference left to the Governments to confer on the political aspects of the proposals upon which agreement must be made before they can be put into effect.

The Commission has acted with excellent promptitude, but it may safely be anticipated that the negotiations which must now begin between London, Paris and Berlin will not be rapid.

At the meeting of the Commission yesterday, certain of the Experts' conclusions were criticised as not sufficiently safeguarding Allied interests, and if the decision was unanimous, it was perhaps due chiefly to the desire to make the first step free from all appearance of disunity.

But it remains the intention of France to raise the questions of the total of reparations to be paid by Germany, and probably of the inter-Allied debts, also of the penalties to be imposed by the Allies in the event of a "flagrant failure" on the part of Germany, and the régime to take the place of that now existing in the Bhur, with its place in the general problem of French security.

The laconic character of the German reply accepting the Experts' report as a basis of settlement is sufficient sign that her acceptance is not without serious reservations, and Dr. Marx, the Chancellor, following Dr. Schact, a few days ago, has emphasised the absolute necessity, in the German mind, of the Ruhr being freed as a condition precedent.

M. Poincaré continues to declare that Germany must pay first. The most hopeful among his interpreters believe that this may mean that he would be content to regard the proposed international loan as a new nature of payment. But even supposing this order of ideas to apply, it does not seem that very speedy solutions are to be looked for. What is immediately interesting, however, is what will be Germany's reply to yesterday's Note from the Commission.

GERMAN FEARS.

M. POINCARE'S STATEMENT CAUSES ALARM.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BERLIN, Friday.

Germany, having accepted the principles of the Experts' report, is suddenly gripped with fear that these principles will never be fulfilled, but will be crippled in the political discussions.

The newspapers throughout the entire country claim that M. Poincaré's statement—"We will not evacuate the Ruhr until we have obtained full payment"—is proof that the first move against the Expert's report is made by France, while, at the same time, the German Government has broadcasted a report that they not only accept the principles in the report, but that the Franco-German agreement reached in the Ruhr through the extension of the M.I.C.U.M. agreement is nothing but the first consequence of the Experts' report.

It was owing to the expectation of a loan of two hundred million dollars provided in the report for delivery in kind, that the Industrialists contented to take up private loans to finance the delivery of coal and iron, according to the M.I.C.U.M. agreement.

The Industrialists spent two hundred million gold marks for the fulfilment of the M.I.C.U.M. agreement during winter months, and inform the Government that unless the new funds they were borrowing for delivery in kind, according to the M.I.C.U.M. agreement, be replaced soon through an international loan, as scheduled in the Experts' report, they will have to stop delivery.

Therefore, they are insisting that the Government should do everything in an effort to reach a definite agreement with the Allies as soon as possible, thus becoming staunch allies of the peace of Europe.

RUSSIAN CONFERENCE.

MOSCOW FEARS A BREAKDOWN.

MOSCOW, April 17.

The Izvestia says that influential British elements aim at bringing about a breakdown of the Russo-British Conference, and that the British working classes will not resist energetically the provocative demeanour of the capitalists.

Commenting on the conference in the Krasnaya Zvyezda, M. Radek says that the conference is Russia's struggle for independence and the possibility of unrestrained economical development. Russia does not intend to be transformed into a colony of the Entente.—(Reuter.)

THE BOUNDARY.

CONFERENCE IN LONDON NEXT WEEK.

It is learned from a semi-official source that President Cosgrave and Mr. O'Higgins will cross to London to-morrow night to take part in the Conference on the Boundaries, which has been summoned for Thursday by Mr. Ramsay Macdonald.

Sir James Craig is leaving Belfast for London early next week.

JAPANESE BAN.

AN ANTI-AMERICAN DEMONSTRATION.

TOKIO, Thursday.

Though the official attitude towards the Washington decision in regard to the exclusion of Japanese from the United States is one of calm resignation, the public mind is filled with bitter resentment at what it regarded as a humiliation and an insult.

Suggestions of retaliation are futile, because the means for such action do not exist, but it is most likely that the question will be revived by the Japanese in the comparatively near future.

Meanwhile hope is not wholly abandoned that the President of the United States may exercise his veto, though the well-informed realise that it is a forlorn hope.

This afternoon 500 students made an anti-American demonstration outside the Foreign Office, otherwise there has been no concrete expression of opinion, although a public demonstration is demanded in some quarters. —(Times telegram.)

SMALLER QUOTAS.

IMMIGRATION TO U.S. REDUCED BY HALF.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Friday.

Immigration from Europe to the United States will be reduced 50 per cent. under the bill due for passage through the Senate to-day.

The way was paved for a speedy passage of the entire restrictions measure, when the Senate adopted a provisional house bill fixing European quotas at two per cent. of the nationals under the 1890 census.

Under this provision immigration from Europe will be reduced to 160,000 annually, compared with 350,000 now coming in on the basis of three per cent. of the foreign population of 1910. The Senate rejected an amendment using the 1910 census as a basis, which would have admitted 240,000 Europeans.

Under the provisions, as approved both by the House and the Senate, only a fraction of the number of Italians, Greeks, Yugo-Slavs, and other Southern Europeans will be admitted, while a large portion of the North-Western and Western Europeans will be allowed.

The Governments of Italy, Rumania, and others have protested against the restrictions, which are scarcely less offensive to them than the Japanese.

TWO PER CENT. QUOTA.

WASHINGTON, Thursday.

The Senate to-day voted, by 53 votes to 25, to reduce the quotas of the new Immigration Bill to 1 p.c. of the nationals of any country in the population of the United States. The census of 1890 was adopted as the quota basis.

Friday.

The Senate late last night voted for the restoration of the 2 p.c. quota in the new Immigration Bill, in view of the adoption of the census of 1890 as the basis in estimating the quotas.—(Reuter.)

The Senate adopted an amendment to the Immigration Bill, giving farmers preference among would-be immigrants, when any State certified that it is short of farm labour.—(Reuter.)

ROUND THE WORLD SEVENTEEN TIMES.

MUCH TRAVELLED ULSTER WOMAN.

Probably the most travelled woman in the world, Mrs. Reid, the wife of Captain William Reid, one of the partners of Messrs. Wilson and Reid, Ltd., shipowners, Ulster Buildings, Belfast, has an astonishing sea record to her credit.

Mrs. Reid, who is really more at home afloat than ashore, has the distinction of having voyaged round the world no fewer than seventeen times.

During her life she has sailed over a million miles, crossed the Equator 108 times, passed round Cape Horn 17 times, and visited India four times.

Captain Reid, speaking at the opening of the Crusaders' Carnival in Belfast, said that his wife had sailed for sixteen years with him when he was master of a ship.

THEFTS ON LINERS.

JEWELS AND SECURITIES LOST.

MARSEILLES, Friday.

The police are making inquiries at Marseilles into a series of thefts of jewellery and securities sent by mail which has occurred on board liners engaged in the Marseilles-Daker-Buenos Aires service.

The thefts have been going on for two years, and are believed to be the work of an international gang, with agents in London and Paris. The total value of the articles and securities stolen is about 6,000,000 francs.—(Times telegram.)

COLONEL WOODS RELEASED.

ESCORTED ACROSS THE BORDER.

Colonel James Woods, of the Free State Army, who was found not guilty of the murder of Mr. W. J. Twaddell, M.P., at the Belfast City Commission last Saturday, has been released. Colonel Woods was detained under an internment order after the trial, but he has now been released from Derry Prison, and escorted to the border. He went from Newtownbutler to Dublin.

LEDGER AND LEVER.

CANADIAN TRAIN DISASTER AVERTED BY INCHES.

HAMILTON, ONTARIO, Thursday.

An express train narrowly escaped disaster here early this morning.

Shortly before the express from Buffalo was due a safe in the station at Smithville was blown up with dynamite by thieves, and a large ledger was hurled by the force of the explosion against a control lever, putting the signals at danger against a goods train. Had the ledger struck the next lever, three inches away, the Buffalo express would have had clear signals, and a terrible accident would probably have occurred.—(Reuter.)

FLAGS FOR HOTELS AND RESTAURANTS.

While the Tailteann Games are in progress Dublin restaurants and hotels will fly flags of royal blue and gold to indicate to visitors where refreshments may be obtained.

REPORTED MURDERS IN ALBANIA.

ATHENS, Thursday.

It is rumoured here that two men from Mr. Pierpont Morgan's yacht have been murdered near Tirana, Albania, but no official confirmation is forthcoming.—(Reuter.)

NOBILITY TITLES IN ITALY.

MUSSOLINI'S ORDINANCE CAUSES EXCITEMENT.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
ROME, Friday.

Signor Mussolini's ordinance against the abuse of titles of nobility is causing great excitement in Rome aristocratic circles.

According to the heraldic law the King of Italy has the recognised right to create nobles. The Italian law also allows foreign Sovereigns to invest Italian citizens with nobility titles, but the Pope is not considered either as Italian or a foreign Sovereign. This delicate question again involves the relations between the Vatican and Italy, more so as the holders of Papal titles, which are mostly granted for high merit towards the Church, now would be liable to criminal prosecution.

OFFICIALS' ALLEGED SECRET COMMISSIONS.

OTTAWA, Thursday.

The Ontario Legislature has been prorogued after a notable session, during which 165 bills received the Royal assent.

The session ended with sensational disclosures, resulting from the suspension of two officials of the Treasury Department and the arrest of a former Provincial Treasurer in connection with charges of defrauding the province, through the acceptance of secret commissions aggregating approximately 100,000 dollars. Criminal prosecutions have been instituted.—(Reuter.)

LONDON JEWEL THIEVES.

DIAMOND NECKLET SEIZED.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Friday.

Three men in a motor car pulled up twenty yards from the shop window of Mr. A. Blackman, jeweller, of New Oxford street, London, on Thursday evening, inspected its contents, smashed it with a hammer, and drove away with a diamond necklet valued at £500. The hammer they left behind.

The affair, Mr. Blackman's daughter said, took place so quickly that it was impossible even to see in which direction the thieves made off. Her father, his manager, and an assistant were in the shop at the time that it happened, at 20 minutes past 8. They heard a crash, looked out, and saw a car moving quickly away enveloped by a cloud of smoke from the exhaust. In place of the necklet they saw a hammer. Under normal circumstances, she said—for the past two evenings we have been busy getting exhibits ready for Wembley—the shutters would have been drawn at 8 o'clock, the time the shop is shut.

The robbery was evidently planned, because, according to the evidence of people passing, the number plate on the car was covered with a rug. Close to the necklet that was stolen was another of similar value. The car, Miss Blackman added, was halted at the corner of Coptic street and New Oxford street, just twenty yards from the shop entrance.

CANADIAN CABLES CUT BY ICE.

DAMAGE DUE TO HEAVY GALES.

MONTREAL, Thursday.

To-day the Atlantic cable companies accepted messages "subject to indefinite delay." The cause of the interruption is that heavy gales have driven the ice inshore at Canso, North Sydney, Halifax, and Saint John, and along the coast of Newfoundland. Such masses are packed in the shallower waters that they have grounded on the bottom, fraying and cutting the cable.

Repair vessels have been rushed out to the points affected, and it is expected that the normal service will be re-established by Saturday.—(Reuter.)

SUNNY FRANCE.

EASTER RUSH OF BRITISH VISITORS.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Friday.

Eastertide in Paris promises to be an English festival. Old residents tell me that they have never seen such numbers of visitors from across the Channel. A feature is the exceptional number of schoolboys and girls, in organised parties.

Since yesterday morning trains at the Gare du Nord and St. Lazaire have continued to bring crowds of holiday folk. By the Boulogne route yesterday alone there were 5,000 and the rush had hardly begun.

Telegrams from the Riviera report that the whole coast is already crowded and that every train from the north unloads fresh contingents of British visitors.

Beautiful sunny weather is general, and, according to the weather reports, it is likely to last.

A GREAT BISHOP.

DEATH OF DR. KELLY.

MAN OF MANY PARTS.

We regret to have to announce the death of the Most Rev. Denis Kelly, D.D., Bishop of Ross, which took place yesterday morning at a Private Nursing Home in Dublin, where he had been under medical treatment for a few weeks past.

Dr. Kelly was the chief pastor of the smallest diocese in Ireland, but he was one of the outstanding figures of his time in the ecclesiastical, industrial, educational and political movements of the past quarter of a century: not that he was a politician in the ordinary acceptation of that term, but that he exercised his influence to keep his people from entering upon foolish and extreme courses—the path that has of recent years led too many young men to commit deeds of violence and acts of destruction under the mistaken belief that they were acting the part of great patriots and promoting the independence of their country, when, as a matter of fact, they were inflicting almost irreparable damage upon it. Dr. Kelly saw all this with a feeling of intense pain and sorrow. He lost no opportunity of warning the erring people of the crime they were committing, and of the melancholy consequences that would inevitably follow in its wake. He was always outspoken, direct, and fearless.

Dr. Kelly was Bishop of Ross for twenty-seven years. Born at Kilnaneave, near Nenagh, Co. Tipperary, in the Diocese of Killaloe, on February 29th, 1852, he received his early education at the local national school. From that he went to the Diocesan College of St. Flannan, at Ennis, and later on to the Irish College, Paris. His college career was a distinguished one in the sphere to which he devoted himself. He was a First Prizeman in classics, mathematics, mental philosophy, theology, Scripture and canon law. He was ordained priest on St. Patrick's Day, 1877, and was appointed curate in the parish of Roscrea. Having spent but a short time on the mission, he went as professor to the College at Ennis. For twenty years he laboured as a teacher, ten of which he spent as President.

The death of the Most Rev. William Fitzgerald in 1896 left Ross without a bishop. The priests of the diocese, without hesitation, selected the President of St. Flannan's College for their chief; the bishops of the province notified the choice, and Dr. Kelly was consecrated bishop by the late Archbishop Croke in the Pro-Cathedral, Skibbereen, on May 9th, 1897.

A SOUND ECONOMIST.

A year after his elevation to the bishopric Dr. Kelly was chosen, under the newly passed Local Government Act, to be a member of the Committee of Management of the Cork District Mental Hospital. He was also selected as a member of the Agricultural Board which had been set up after the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction came into being. To the discharge of the business of both these bodies he brought a well-stored mind, intelligence, common-sense and a breadth of view which deeply impressed those with whom he worked. In this respect he was, as one might say, another Father Thomas Finlay. His reputation as a sound economist extended beyond the shores of Ireland, so that when the British Government set up a Royal Commission in 1905 on the Poor Laws, to inquire into the causes and relief of distress in Great Britain and Ireland, Dr. Kelly was nominated as one of the two members who represented Ireland.

For four years he laboured with splendid zeal on that Commission. It entailed hard work and much travelling to and from London, and going down into the slums of the big towns in England and Scotland in order to see for himself what the actual condition of the poor dwellers was. In 1911 Dr. Kelly was again called upon. He was appointed a member of the Cabinet Committee on Irish Finance in view of Mr. Asquith's Home Rule Bill, which was then in the offing. The recommendations of that Committee found but a small place in the bill when it was produced.

When the National Convention was called together in 1917, with a view to a settlement of the differences between Ulster and the rest Ireland on the Home Rule question. Dr. Kelly was once more invited to contribute his share to a solution of that vexed question. He accepted the task willingly, and he devoted himself with characteristic enthusiasm to the work of the Convention. While the Convention was sitting he had a serious attack of illness, but so keen was he on the question that he wrote from his sick-bed a letter to Sir Horace Plunkett, the Chairman, begging of his fellow-conventionists to seize the opportunity that was presented to them to unite North and South and save the country from further turmoil. The Convention failed in its purpose, and no one more deeply regretted it than the patriotic Bishop of Ross.

It is as a Churchman, pure and simple, that Dr. Kelly would wish to be judged. His annual Pastorals were valued by all who had the opportunity of studying them, for their clear teaching of Christian truth, for their prophetic warnings of the evil days that were in store, and for the sure touch with which he laid down the divine rule of conduct and the implications which that rule carried with it, as applied to the individual lives of members of the community.

His people in West Cork loved him for the simplicity of his life, and they will be joined by a wide circle of outside friends in mourning his loss.

The Right Rev. Monsignor Hill, P.P., V.G., Clonakilty, was at the bedside when Dr. Kelly died, and he had also the consolation of being visited by two of his nephews who are priests, one in the Diocese of Cashel and the other in Killaloe.

The remains of the deceased prelate will be taken to Skibbereen to-day.

EXPRESSIONS OF SYMPATHY.

Monsignor Hill, V.G., Dublin, has received expressions of regret and sympathy from the Archbishop of Cashel, All Hallows College, the Convent of Mercy, Clonakilty; the Convent of Mercy, Skibbereen; and the Convent, Roscarbery.

THE NEWS IN CORK.

Our Cork Correspondent telegraphs :—News of the death of the Most Rev. Dr. Kelly, Bishop of Ross, was received in Cork with the greatest regret by all classes. He was well-known by many citizens, and was looked up to as an authority second to none in financial matters. A gifted theologian, his Lenten Pastorals were awaited with keen interest, and his wise guidance served to stimulate, not only people of his own diocese, but others far outside it. The Bishop of Cork and the Bishop of Cloyne learned of Dr. Kelly's death with sorrow and regret.

The people of Skibbereen, where, during the entire term of his episcopacy Dr. Kelly resided, heard with profound regret of the death of their beloved Bishop. Though for some time Dr. Kelly was in rather indifferent health, says our Skibbereen Correspondent, nobody anticipated that when he left the Bishop's House a few weeks ago he did so for the last time. Dr. Kelly was to the people of Skibbereen above all else their pastor, their shepherd. Proud though the people were of the great position which his abilities had gained in the larger sphere, they remembered him chiefly for the untiring zeal with which, during all his long years among them, he laboured for their spiritual and temporal interest.

In the framing of the Corn Production Act, Dr. Kelly's views were sought by British statesmen, and it was he who framed the particular portion of the Act that fixed a definite minimum wage for agricultural labourers.

He was Chairman of the Governors of the Baltimore Fishery School, and the deep sea fisheries were his special care. Indeed, his last visit to Baltimore Fishery School was his final appearance at an official function.

Widespread sympathy was manifested here, says our Clonakilty Correspondent, when the death of the Most Rev. Dr. Kelly became known. At meetings of the Farmers' Union, the Dairy Shorthorn Breeders' Society, and Clonakilty Agricultural Society, resolutions of sympathy were passed.

Mr. David White, Peace Commissioner, who presided, said that it was with profound regret that they learned of the death of their esteemed Bishop. Though at times, he was sorry to say, they did not see eye to eye with Dr. Kelly, they now realised that there was a depth of meaning in his counsel. The late Bishop was a true prophet in many ways. He took a keen interest in the welfare of the farming community. His many services would long be remembered. Mr. Charles O'Sullivan, Skibbereen, endorsed the remarks of the Chairman, and added that it was unfortunate that the people did not take to heart the wise words of Dr. Kelly. Had they done so they would not now be in their present plight.

130 MILLION FILM COMBINE.

MR. MARCUS LOEW'S BIG SCHEME.

NEW YORK, Friday.

The impending merger of cinematograph companies, with a combined capital of 650,000,000 dollars (£130,000,000) into a company to be called the Metro-Goldwyn Corporation, is announced.

Included in the combination are the Metropolitan Pictures, the Goldwyn Pictures, and the Louis B. Mayer Company.

Mr. Marcus Loew, who controls the Metropolitan Company, is the leading spirit in the enterprise. Through one of his organisations, Loew's, Incorporated, he controls, or is affiliated with, fifty theatre companies, and about five hundred theatres in the United States and Canada.

Mr. Loew said to-day that the motion picture business is going through a stabilisation, in which centralisation, as in other large businesses, is necessary for economy and efficiency.—(Times telegram.)

EXPLORING THE AMAZON.

AMERICAN WOMEN RIVALS IN STRANGE RACE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Friday.

One of the richest and most prominent of America's society women and a former Ziegfeld Follies girl are to be rivals in a race to the strangest and most bewildering of the earth's unexplored regions.

The first is Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice, leader in society in New York, Philadelphia, Newport and Boston. She inherited two immense fortunes—one from her father, William L. Elkins; the other from her first husband, George D. Widener, who went down on the Titanic.

She and her husband, Dr. Rice, leader of six expeditions up the Amazon, sail within a few days for London, whence they will take ship for Para, Brazil, the starting point of a two-year exploration of the great rivers and jungles of the Amazon Valley. They hope to discover the head waters of the Orinoco and incidentally, it is said, penetrate the mysteries of Mount Duida.

The actress-explorer is Mrs. William Bell Taylor, formerly Ruth Andrews, of the Ziegfeld Follies. Mr. Taylor is a young explorer who has crossed the South American Continent in the equatorial region five times. He is preparing for a new expedition to South America, and will take his wife with him. His main object is Mount Duida.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Rice will have many months' start of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, the younger explorer says it will be a fair race. During the rainy season the Orinoco rises and floods the surrounding jungle.

"It will not be low water until November," said Mr. Taylor, in explaining that he has as good a chance of getting to Duida first as Dr. Rice has.

CANADA AND THE SOVIET MISSION.

AN EXPLANATION DEMANDED.

OTTAWA, Thursday.

The Canadian Government has asked the Soviet Trade Mission for explanations of its introduction into Canada of propaganda literature and of its communications with the "Red" leaders in Winnipeg. The Mission arrived with forty cases of baggage from Moscow, and claimed diplomatic immunity from the Customs examination. This was refused, as the Mission is a trade body, not diplomatic.

Nearly half of the supplies brought consisted of "Red" propaganda, denouncing and ridiculing Jesus Christ and the Christian religion and lauding Communists and revolution.

The Russians asserted that the books were for the Canadian Universities, but the Government law officers believe that this is but a blind to carry on propaganda.

The Canadian Mounted Police claim to be in possession of information that the Mission consists of active propagandists. The Prime Minister, Mr. Mackenzie King, has seen the Mission representative and awaits his further explanations.—(Times telegram, per Press Association, copyright.)

OBITUARY.

ARCHDEACON HOBSON, ARMAGH.

The Ven. E. W. Hobson, Archdeacon of Armagh, died on Thursday at his residence, The Library. He had been ill for some weeks. He was about seventy years of age.

Archdeacon Hobson had been associated with Armagh Cathedral for many years, having been appointed Prebendary for Loughgall in 1904, during his incumbency of St. Mark's, Portadown. In 1908 he was promoted to be Treasurer, in 1910 Chancellor, and in 1913 Precentor. In 1915 he was appointed Archdeacon, with which office he combined that of Librarian. This appointment closed his long parochial work in Portadown. He had been rector of St. Mark's since 1895. He had been curate there in 1878-81, following his first curacy at the Mariners' Church, Kingstown. Between his curacy and his incumbency at Portadown, he was incumbent successively of Moy and Derryloran. His continuous service in the Diocese of Armagh lasted forty-six years. He was appointed an examining chaplain to the Primate in 1911.

THE ARCHDEACON OF ORKNEY.

The Venerable J. B. Craven, D.D., Archdeacon of Orkney since 1913, died at Kirkwall on Thursday. Dr. Craven was author of various historical works, several of which were concerned with the Church in Orkney and Ross.

COLONEL SIR JOHN AUGUSTUS HOPE, BART.

The death occurred, with tragic suddenness, in Edinburgh, on Thursday night, of Colonel Sir John Augustus Hope, Bart., of Craighall, who resided at Pinkie House, Musselburgh. Sir John, who was fifty-five years of age, was taken ill at the Waverley Station, and died on his way to hospital. His widow is a daughter of the late Lord Balfour of Burleigh, and the heir to the Baronetcy is his twelve year old son. Sir John was Unionist member for North Midlothian from 1912 to 1919, and member for Midlothian until 1922.

DR. CHARLES H. BLOOD.

The death has taken place, unexpectedly, at his residence, Willow Bank, Kilmurry, near Limerick, of Dr. Charles H. Blood, M.D., in his sixty-second year. Dr. Blood was a son of the late Mr. Fitzgerald Blood, of Ballykilty, Co. Clare, and was educated at Trinity College, Dublin. He practised for a time at Johannesburg, returning to Ireland seventeen years ago. He was a member of Limerick Diocesan Synod and Council.

MR. W. F. MACNAMARA.

The death of Mr. William F. MacNamara, proprietor of the Shannon Foundry and Engineering Works, Limerick, occurred on Wednesday at St. John's Hospital, Limerick. Mr. MacNamara was an excellent example of that type of Irishman who seeks to promote his country's interest by individual energy, efficiency and enterprise in doing the work that lies to hand. For many years his father carried on brassfoundry and brass-finishing works in Thomas street, Limerick.

As a young man Mr. William MacNamara settled in Glasgow, with a view to acquiring a complete knowledge of the ironfounding trade. He returned to Limerick, and about forty years ago established the present Shannon Foundry and Engineering Works. He made it a success from the beginning and carried out many important undertakings. These included the manufacture and erection of the turbine pumping machinery for the Limerick Water Works at the Falls of Doonas, near Castleconnell—the place, by the way, where it is suggested that power shall be taken for the projected Siemens Shannon electricity scheme. He also carried on extensively the manufacture of agricultural implements.

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

BYRON CENTENARY.

THE POET'S FAME IN EUROPE.

The Times, in a leading article, says:—The centenary which we celebrate to-day is of no ordinary kind. The death of Lord Byron at Missolonghi was more than an event in literature; it was an event in the history of European thought, pregnant with momentous consequences in politics, and with social consequences more momentous still.

The fame of Byron among his countrymen never had the same character as his fame in Europe. With them it was the fame of a poet who had revealed to them a world of new beauties in subject and in style, but it was nothing more. Abroad, it has always been the fame of a poet, indeed; but the fame of a poet who was also the Tyrtæus of universal revolt. The first appeal in letters to the poetry of the gorgeous East, with its light and its colour, its immemorial antiquity, its imperishable story, its classic associations, its sensuous loves, its murderous hates, its beliefs and its habits so different from ours, fired the mind of all the West. All, too, could delight in the ringing verse, the fervid declamation, the brilliant descriptions; in the tenderness of the exquisite "He who hath bent him o'er the dead," and in the inspiration of "Yes, love, indeed, is light from Heaven." The great passages which have passed into our national inheritance speak to all. The famous stanzas on the Duchess of Richmond's ball and Waterloo, on Italy in her decay, "still impregnate with divinity," on the ruins of the Palatine, "Cypress, and ivy weed and wall-flower-grown," on the dying gladiator, on St. Peter's. "All musical in its immensities," the exultant appeal to nature at the close of "Childe Harold," with the fine "Roll on, thou deep and dark blue ocean, roll," and the finer "Time writes no wrinkle on thine azure brow," the "Clime of the unforgotten brave," and "The Isle of Greece." "Donna Julia," "how beautiful she looked, her conscious heart showed in her cheek, and, yet, she felt no wrong"—the whole story of Haidee, both full of delicate and masterly touches—these and many more speak first to us, but next to all mankind.

A few of the lyrics are even better known and loved among ourselves, and our everyday speech is enriched by many felicitious lines, phrases, and even words, which we quote as we quote others from Addison's "Cato," without remembering whence they come—a proof in each case of bygone popularity. Many more of equal merit are less familiar, because they are buried in masses of dull and frivolous verbosity. The right gold is there, but it does not repay the winning.

COAL PRICES.

THE MERCHANTS' PLEA.

The Times, in a leading article dealing with the letter, which Mr. Shinwell, the Secretary for Mines, has addressed to the Coal Merchants' Federation, as the result of the inquiries of his Department concerning the retail prices and qualities of household coal, says :—What the coal merchants were required to do was, for one thing, to remove from the minds of the public the suspicion that they charge excessive prices and make high profits during the winter months. What they have done, instead of availing themselves of the opportunity, is to plead that for certain trade reasons, which they explain, they are forced to make high charges in winter, when the demand for coal is greatest, so as to recoup themselves for the unremunerative rates which they quoted in summer, in order to ensure the receipt of a constant supply from the collieries all through the year. The only course which they suggest by means of which consumers can help in keeping down the average price, is that they should buy more of their coal during the summer and store it in cellars, which in flats, in the majority of middle-class houses, and in all the poorer class of urban dwellers, either do not exist or have a very limited holding capacity.

However plausible, and even reasonable, the first part of this explanation may be, the fact remains that it does not meet all the circumstances of the case. In the opinion of Mr. Shinwell, and, doubtless, also in that of the public, it leaves the suspicions of the consumer unallayed.

EARTHQUAKE IN SWITZERLAND.

MONTREUX, Wednesday.

Yesterday's seismic disturbance was felt throughout Switzerland, though very little damage is reported. The centre of the tremors appears to have been in the Valais country. At Brigue some slight damage was done to buildings, and several chimneys were overturned. The parish church of Glis was rather more seriously damaged. Three shocks were felt in rapid succession, lasting several seconds. The shocks were stronger in the region situate between Domodosola, Iselle, Brigue, and Visp. Some damage is reported at Naters, while at Visp several chimneys were thrown down.—(Reuter.)

EX-SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

DUBLIN SOCIETY'S GOOD WORK.

MANY NECESSITOUS CASES RELIEVED.

The record of a year's work of the Irish Branch of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society, which was read to the members at the annual meeting of the branch at 12 Merrion square, Dublin, on Thursday, was a tribute to the earnestness and enthusiasm of the workers in the cause of the ex-Serviceman in this country. Although the Society, like most others, had to face the handicap of insufficient funds, it was able to carry on without any decrease in its work, and continued its help, not only with money and clothing, but also with much-needed and useful advice, in finding employment for men and medical attention.

Blount, M.B.E.; Colonel the Lord Ardee, C.B., C.B.E.; Colonel Sir Frederick Shaw, Bart., D.S.O.; Colonel Bramston Newman, Sir John Lumsden, K.B.E., D.L.; Messrs. W. P. Walker and A. E. C. Hamilton, and Mrs. John Fetherstonhaugh, O.B.E., Honorary General Secretary for Ireland.

Letters of apology for absence were received from the Countess of Fingall, Lady de Freyne, Lady Susan Dawnay, Lady Nash, O.B.E.; Lady Moore, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Greer, O.B.E.; Miss King Harman, Miss Murray Ker, the Earl of Dunraven, Lord Holm-Patrick, Sir Michael O'Loghlen, Bart.; and Messrs. Maurice C. Hime, M.A., LL.D.; J. A. Maconchy, E. Beaumont Nesbitt, and W. J. Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. Fetherstonhaugh read a letter from Lord FitzAlan of Derwent, acknowledging the very generous resolution of thanks forwarded to him from the Society, and stating that he appreciated it highly, and was only sorry that it was not in his power to do more. He was glad that Sir John Lumsden was mentioned in the resolution, as he had found his assistance and advice invaluable.

VICE-PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Lady Arnott, in her address to the meeting, said :—Our Council meeting to-day marks another milestone in the annals of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society in Ireland. The 24th annual report is before us, recording the work done during 1923. The Society still finds itself the only organisation striving to help soldiers' "friends" all over Ireland, who can investigate and deal with isolated country cases within a week, and the Society still seems the only machine for helping all ex-Servicemen who are requiring advice in their difficulties with pensions, appeal case delays, and civil liabilities grants. Our Dublin office continues to be an advisory and letter-writing bureau and investigator of grievances. You will see in the report that 2,862 letters were written for various cases, and 3,201 men received the advice they asked for and required, while necessitious cases were granted assistance that amounted to £1,111 19s. 3d. The over-lapping and shuttlecocking of cases from office to office that was complained of last year seems to have been practically overcome by the card-indexing system, and lists interchanged weekly between the various societies. Our organisation works in friendly co-operation with the War Pensions Committees, who pass on to us cases that cannot be dealt with under their official regulations, and our Society has been used by the War Office and King George's Fund for Sailors to make certain grants on their behalf.

Our Dublin office keeps in close touch with the Red Cross Emergency Fund and their splendid work in financing men awaiting appeals, or undergoing treatment without allowances, and also keeps in touch with the United Services Fund that deals chiefly with the children of ex-Service men, and the ex-soldiers of the Great War suffering from illness not due to Army service. The dearth of employment has caused terrible hardships this winter for ex-Service men, and so widespread was the distress that all that could be done was to get necessitous cases of illness adequately cared for and dealt with. The report will show you that our voluntary organisation has done its best to give unfailing sympathy and guidance to all appeals, and every possible financial assistance out of the small funds at the disposal of the Society. I will now call on Mrs. Fetherstonhaugh to read the report.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The report of the twenty-fourth Council held at 12 Merrion square, Dublin, on the 17th inst., for the year ending 31st December, 1923, which was read by Mrs. Fetherstonhaugh, stated that the work of the Society, though greatly hampered by want of funds, had in no way decreased. In the Dublin Office, apart from the 1,115 men helped with money, clothing, etc., there were 3,201 cases that merely required advice, or a reference to one of the other organisations which could deal with their particular requirements. It was with great regret that the Council accepted the resignation of Miss Croker, O.B.E., who had proved invaluable as honorary secretary of the Men's Clothing Branch. The Society was deeply indebted to the kindness of Sir John and Lady Arnott in placing their house at its disposal for all Committee meetings.

The Society had received a very large number of applications from men who were in difficulties regarding their pensions or other matters. That the work of the Society was appreciated by outside bodies was proved by the fact that the War Office and the King George's Fund for Sailors had asked them to make grants on their behalf in cases which they confessed they themselves had not the machinery to deal with. Besides acting on behalf of various regimental charities, the Society had investigated and reported on a large number of cases by request of the Ministry of Pensions, Royal Hospital, Chelsea.

During the year the Dublin Office dealt with 4,316 cases. Financial assistance was granted in 756 cases, and expenditure in relief amounted to £1,111 19s. 8d. 2,862 letters were written in connection with various cases. The Employment Bureau found employment for 147 men, and the Tuberculosis Committee dealt with 252 cases. Besides cash grants, it helped in various ways, such as payment of arrears of rent when the man was threatened with eviction; board and lodging; clothes; orders for groceries; spectacles; dental treatment; travelling expenses on taking up employment; and in 30 cases it paid for or contributed towards the funeral expenses of old soldiers. A grant of £100 obtained through Mr. Edward White for special cases was very greatly appreciated, and enabled the Society to assist a number of cases of extreme hardship which did not come within the ordinary rules of the Society.

OVERLAPPING AVOIDED.

The report having outlined the cases that had been helped explained that any risk of overlapping with other organisations was eliminated by a weekly exchange of a list of cases assisted by the Red Cross, United Service Fund, and the Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society. In November and December Sir John Lumsden, with his usual consideration and sympathy where the interests of ex-Service men are concerned, arranged a number of conferences, which were attended by representatives of the various organisations in Dublin, with a view to bringing about closer co-operation, the result being that a liaison officer was appointed, whose duties are to inquire into cases of hardship which appear to be ineligible for assistance under the rules of any Society, and to report details to a newly-formed Benevolent Committee. A number of men owed a debt of gratitude to the Hon. Secretary, Miss Blount, for the trouble she had taken in connection with pensions difficulties, delay in hearing appeal cases, and payment of civil liabilities grants, going personally to heads of departments on the men's behalf, and representing their claims.

The work of the Employment Bureau, which was commenced in 1916, was still carried on as actively as hitherto, and as successfully as the altered conditions which now exist would allow. That employment during the year had been obtained for 147 men out of the number of 392, the total number registered during the year, must, in the opinion of the Committee, be regarded as satisfactory, and the figure 5,859 represented the total number of cases in which the Bureau had succeeded in getting suitable employment for ex-Service men since its formation in 1916. In addition to these figures, through the efforts of the Bureau a number of men were placed in temporary employment, and a very large number for whom no employment could be obtained were encouraged to join the National Army, which is now of the greatest advantage to them on demobilisation in obtaining employment with the Free State authorities. The Committee continued to provide men going to employment with clothes, boots, and tools, and to pay travelling expenses.

TUBERCULOUS CASES.

The work of the Tuberculosis Committee had very considerably increased. No fewer than 252 new cases had been registered during the past year, of whom 176 had been admitted to sanatoria, 12 had died, and one had become sufficiently healthy after treatment to obtain employment.

The Men's Clothing Branch distributed to 97 men 479 articles of clothing, including 49 pairs of boots, and 530 were contributed by friends.

Reports from the provinces were included, and that from the Tipperary (South Riding) Branch stated that never in the history of the branch had there been such urgent requests for help and advice, and never had there been so much work done as in the year under review. It went on to say:—

Many men have had their pensions cut off or largely reduced, and this, coupled with the dearth of employment and the numbers of men demobilised from the Free State Army and thrown on the labour market, has caused great privations among the ex-Service men. During 1923 no fewer than 44 men were assisted from our funds—some in cash payments to provide the necessities of life, and others in having their fares paid to take up employment elsewhere. Employment was found for 38 men. Inquiries with regard to men seeking aid from Royal Irish and other regimental funds are now sent in every case to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society workers, asking for reports, and over 100 of such reports were submitted.

LORD ARDEE.

Lord Ardee, who moved the adoption of the report, said that the Society, though hampered by the want of funds, still filled a great want in putting men—who were otherwise unable to find help—in touch with societies who had more funds to help them, and in helping them to get out claims for compensation. He knew that these men were very grateful for this help, which was sometimes more valuable than financial aid.

INCREASING APPLICATIONS.

Sir John Lumsden seconded the adoption of the report. Speaking of the Benevolent Committee, referred to in the report, he said that there was no question that the condition of the men at the present moment was very bad, indeed. The number of applicants was becoming more and more numerous, and many men were becoming desperate. They needed a closer connection between the different societies, and therefore the Benevolent Committee had been formed with a view to keeping in touch with these societies, and preserve a closer liaison between the United Services' Fund and the Legion of ex-Service Men. He appealed for a closer connection between the Societies, and said that only if they kept together and took a broad view, and continued their work in a spirit of co-operation would they be able to do the best they possibly could with the money left for the benefit of the soldiers. They were very glad to see the Secretary of the United Services Club with them there, and he did hope that the result of this Benevolent Committee would enable them to help societies like the Red Cross to keep in touch with the United Services' Fund and the Legion of ex-Service Men, so that the very best arrangements could be made without anything in the shape of over-lapping. Of course there was an Area Committee. Whether that Committee was going to be of any great help time would tell, but they ought to do their best during the next twelve months to keep as closely in touch with each other as possible on behalf of the ex-Service men. (Applause.)

Mr. Walker, having spoken on the subject of the report, said that any effort that had been made for co-operation between the societies had been well received, and only for the Association the ex-British soldier would have had a much worse time than he had had.

The motion to adopt the report was unanimously passed.

THE ELECTIONS.

On the motion of Sir Frederick Shaw, seconded by Colonel Bramston Newman, Colonel the Lord Ardee was unanimously elected President, Lady Arnott was unanimously re-elected Vice-President, Mrs. Fetherstonhaugh was unanimously re-elected Hon.-General Secretary, and the Executive Committee was unanimously re-elected.

Sir Frederick Shaw said that they all knew what Lady Arnott had done for the Society since its inception, and there was no one more suitable for the office of Vice-President. He also paid a tribute to the good work of Mrs. Fetherstonhaugh and other officers.

The following resolution, proposed by Lord Ardee, and seconded by Lady Arnott, was unanimously passed:—"That the warm thanks of the Council and Executive Committee of the Irish Branch of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society be tendered to Mrs. Fetherstonhaugh, the Hon. General Secretary for Ireland, for her unceasing efforts to keep the organisation of the Society intact and working throughout the country; to Miss Mary Blount, the Hon. Secretary of the Executive Committee, for her daily attendance at the Dublin office, and for the personal trouble she takes in connection with pension difficulties, delay in hearing appeal cases and payment of civil liabilities grants, and to Mr. Alick Hamilton for all he does so sympathetically and efficiently in the headquarters office."

The proceedings then concluded.

£85,000 DAMAGE BY LIGHTED MATCH.

Damage to the extent of £85,000 was caused by the recent outbreak of fire on the P. and O. steamer Moldavia, which the Marine Court at Fremantle, Western Australia, has decided was caused by a lighted match being dropped into one of the holds, in which inflammable matter was contained.

FATHER MATHEW FEIS.

The Father Mathew Feis opens to-morrow afternoon in the Hall, Church street. The number of competitors shows a marked increase on that of former years, and it was found impossible to arrange all the competitions within the usual time. The various forms of talent to be tested during the first week include music, vocal and instrumental; art, under the heading of which are painting, sketching, illuminating, and practical work in different metals; literary competitions in English and Irish, domestic science and physical culture. Such a programme is likely to attract a large attendance at the Feis, where there will be found much that will interest those who appreciate art and music.

EASTER HOLIDAYS.

AMUSEMENTS, SPORTS & EXCURSIONS.

HOW GOOD FRIDAY WAS SPENT.

General Inference.—The depression in the Atlantic and the anti-cyclone over France will maintain a general south-westerly wind current, strong at times on the North-West coasts. Some further rain or showers will occur in Scotland and Northern Ireland, and there will be cloudy periods in the North of England. In the South the weather will continue fair and rather warm.

The Easter holidays, for many who wish to spend them out of doors, commenced yesterday. All the Irish railway companies issued return tickets at reduced fares, available until Wednesday next, and these were in great demand.

On Easter Monday the various companies will issue return tickets at single fares to all their principal stations, and if weather conditions prove propitious there should be a large volume of traffic. Special arrangements have been made for cheap excursions to England, Scotland and North Wales, and also to places on the Continent.

Nearer home there are other attractions for holiday-makers. For lovers of sport there are racing at Fairyhouse and Tramore, Rugby football at Lansdowne road, the Hard Court Lawn Tennis Championship at Wilton place, and special competitions at various golf links.

There is quite a feast of theatrical attractions. A musical comedy entitled "Stop Flirting" will be staged at the Gaiety Theatre. The Queen's Theatre will re-open, after the Lenten season, to-night, with the Dublin Opera Company in "The Lily of Killarney"; there will be a change of programme every night next week. Strong variety programmes are booked for the Theatre Royal and the Tivoli Theatre, while a specially-written revue by John MacDonagh, entitled "Next Stop, Dublin," is the attraction at the Olympia Theatre.

GOOD FRIDAY IN DUBLIN.

CHURCH SERVICES.

The Services in the various city churches in Dublin yesterday were well attended.

At St. Patrick's Cathedral Services were held at 10 and 11.15 a.m., and 3.15 p.m. The anthems sung were, "Lord, for Thy tender mercy's sake" (Tarrant), and "Thy rebuke hath broken His heart" (Handel). The preachers were the Rev. N. H. Hamilton, in the morning, and the Rev. C. R. Milligan in the afternoon.

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday Bach's Passion Music, according to St. John, was sung each evening at 8 o'clock. Large congregations attended, and the work of the great composer was heard at its best, with Dr. Hewson at the organ. The choral work was admirable, while the solo parts were sung by Mr. John Gill (tenor), and Mr. T. F. Marchant (bass) on Monday and Tuesday, and by Mr. T. W. Hall (bass) on Wednesday and Thursday. Stainer's setting of the "Miserere" was also sung each evening.

At Christ Church Cathedral yesterday the Dean was the preacher at the Morning Service. The anthem, "O Saviour of the World," to the setting by Goss, was beautifully rendered. The anthem in the afternoon was Mendelssohn's "My God, My God."

In many of the other churches Stainer's "Crucifixion" was sung.

TO-MORROW'S SERVICES.

At St. Patrick's Cathedral to-morrow there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 o'clock. At 11.15 the Te Deum and Jubilate will be sung to the setting of Sir Charles Villiers Stanford, in B flat. The processional hymn will be "Jesus Christ is risen to-day," and the anthem, "I know that my Redeemer liveth" (Handel). The Dean will be the preacher. At 3.15 p.m. the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis will be sung to Stanford in B flat. The anthems will be "Hallelujah" and "I know that my Redeemer liveth" (Handel). The Dean will be the preacher.

At Christ Church Cathedral at 11 o'clock the preacher will be the Archbishop of Dublin. The anthem will be, "I know that my Redeemer liveth" to Handel's tune. The Te Deum and Benedictus will be by Stanford in B flat. Holy Communion will be celebrated at 11.40. Evensong will be at 3.30.

Special Services will be held in the various other churches.

ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCHES.

In the Roman Catholic churches Good Friday was celebrated with solemn ceremonial. Large congregations attended the devotions morning and evening, and for the Veneration of the Cross there was a constant stream of people all day.

In the Pro-Cathedral, Marlborouh street, there were Stations of the Cross at 8 o'clock. Subsequently Mass of the Pre-Sanctified was celebrated, the Most Rev. Dr. Byrne presiding. The Mass was accompanied by solemn chanting of the Passion. There were Stations of the Cross and a sermon on the Passion at 3 o'clock. In the evening the Office of Tenebrae was solemnly chanted, and was followed by a sermon on the Passion. The Archbishop presided.

At St. Andrew's Church, Westland row, the day was celebrated with full Roman ceremonial. There were Stations of the Cross and reading of the Passion in the morning, followed by chanting of the Passion and Mass of the Pre-Sanctified, a procession to the Altar of Repose and back again, with a Passion sermon by the Rev. Father Lawless, Leeson street. The celebrant was the Rev. Father Fleming, the deacon the Rev. T. Ryan, and the sub-deacon the Rev. Father Mooney. At 3 o'clock there were sacred music, Stations of the Cross, and Veneration of the Cross. The Office of Tenebrae was chanted in the evening, a sermon being delivered by the Rev. Thomas Ryan, C.C.

At St. Teresa's Church, Clarendon street, in addition to Mass of the Pre-Sanctified and the Office of Tenebrae, there was Passion music from the works of Mercadante, Rossini and Dubois, rendered by a special choir. Sermons on the Three Hours' Agony were delivered by the Very Rev. Father Stanislaus, O.D.C.; the Rev. Father Fintan, O.D.C., and the Rev. Father Lawrence, O.D.C. The Rev. Father Simon, O.D.C., was the preacher at night.

The devotion of the Three Hours' Agony was a feature of the ceremonies yesterday in St. Francis Xavier's Church, Upper Gardiner street, where the preachers were the Rev. Thomas Murphy, S.J., and the Rev. Vincent Byrne, S.J.

There were similar devotions at St. Joseph's, Berkeley street, together with a programme of sacred music.

At St. Mary's, Haddington road, and the Church of Our Immaculate Lady of Refuge, Rathmines, Mass of the Pre-Sanctified was celebrated, and it was followed by other devotions suited to the occasion.

GOOD FRIDAY IN BELFAST.

The weather in Belfast on Good Friday was splendid, and the excursion facilities offered by the railway companies were thoroughly enjoyed by holiday makers.

A good many Church Services were held during the day, the Belfast Cathedral having a Children's Service at 10.30, at which the preacher was the Rev. G. R. C. Olden, M.A., and at 11.30 there were Morning Prayer and Holy Communion, with the Rev. H. Gordon, M.A., as preacher.

At 3.30 the Rev. A. D. Mitchell, Rector of Eglantine, delivered an address on "Questions of the Passion."

St. George's Parish Church had a Morning Service, at which the Rev. G. G. Hammond, M.A., was the preacher, and at St. Michael's (Shankill road) at night the Rev. I. E. Davidson, B.A., conducted the Service. There were good attendances at all the Morning Services.

HOLIDAY RUSH TO ULSTER.

The steamships Patriotic and Graphic, which sailed from the Mersey on Thursday night, arrived at Donegall quay, Belfast, yesterday morning, with over 800 passengers, who will spend Easter in different parts of Ulster.

Whilst many are travelling from England to the North, a large number are leaving Belfast for Liverpool for the Easter recess.

M. Wielhorski, a Lithuanian, managing editor of the only Polish newspaper published in Lithuania, has been expelled from that country.

PORTRANE ASYLUM RAIDED.

ARMED MEN DECAMP WITH KEYS.

At the meeting on Thursday of the Joint Committee of the Grangegorman Mental Hospital—Alderman Staines presiding—it was reported that the head night attendant at Portrane Mental Hospital was locked into the isolation ward by armed men on the 11th instant, and his whereabouts were unknown until he was found and released by nurses next morning.

The armed men, it appears, took the attendant's keys, of which there has since been no trace. On a previous occasion his keys were taken by armed men, but were subsequently returned.

The Resident Medical Superintendent said that the most serious aspect of the matter was that all the main buildings were at the mercy of whoever took the keys away. It would be necessary, he thought, to put special locks on all the outer doors, and that, of course, would entail more expense.

Mr. John Lalor said that the occurrence was not creditable to the Portrane Committee, and a special committee should be appointed to deal with the matter.

Several members pointed out that even if there were nine committees at Portrane the incident could have happened.

It was finally decided to summon a special meeting of the Portrane Committee for Wednesday next.

FINANCES SATISFACTORY.

The Finance Committee's report, which was adopted, stated that, after payment of accounts to the amount of £14,939 13s. 5d., there remained a balance of £1,247 3s. 11d. to credit of revenue account and a balance of £487 18s. 4d. to credit of loans account.

The arrears due on foot of the 1923-24 estimate and demand by the County Councils of Dublin, Wicklow, and Louth were all lodged to the credit of the Joint Committee before 31st March. There are no balances now outstanding and the financial position is satisfactory.

The audit of the accounts for the two and a half years ended 31st March, 1923, was concluded on the 14th inst. There were no surcharges. An adverse balance of £37,377 at the commencement of that period (1st October, 1920, was converted into a credit balance of £18,759 at the conclusion (31st March, 1923), the net improvement being £56,136.

QUEENSTOWN MURDER.

COONAN CHARGED AT CORK.

At a special Court in Cork. Patrick Joseph Coonan, a young man of respectable appearance, was charged by Inspector Dawson of the Civic Guard, with having at Cobh (Queenstown) on 21st March, 1924, feloniously and with malice aforethought killed and murdered Private Herbert Aspinall, of the Royal Army Service Corps at Spike Island, County Cork. The accused was not professionally represented.

Guard Meany, who is stationed at Westgate Barracks, Drogheda, stated that on Monday, 14th April, 1924, he was on duty in Drogheda, accompanied by Guard Mahony, when the accused approached them and said, "I beg your pardon, gentlemen; I am a man that there is a very serious charge hanging over my head." The witness asked him what was it, and he replied, "Well, you know what it is—I am a man for whom there is £10,000 for my head." The witness again asked him what the crime was, and he replied, "Very well, you know what it is." The witness said that that was a very serious accusation, to which he replied, "I was going to give myself up to the military to-night." The witness asked him his name, and he replied, "Patrick Joseph Coonan, Tipperary, and I am one of the men who shot British soldiers at Queenstown, and I am fed up going about."

The witness then told him to come to the station, and he did so, and was taken into custody; but he was not charged. When he was charged on Thursday morning by the witness at Moore's Hotel with having murdered Private Herbert Aspinall he said, "It is all nonsense, in the first place." He then said, "I wish to make a statement," and added, "I am a native of Cloughjordan, Tipperary. I left that town in 1918. Since then I have been working in Ireland and England until January, 1923. On this occasion I came to Croom, County Limerick. I was arrested by the Free State Army from January, 1923, to May, 1923, as being an Irregular. I received some wounds in the head, and was then discharged. When discharged I returned to Liverpool. I resided in Liverpool from May, 1923, to 8th April, 1924, when I returned to Dublin, and went to Drogheda, looking for a job." The witness took down the statement in writing, and the accused signed it.

The accused declined to cross-examine the witness.

Inspector Dawson, Civic Guards, said that he was in charge of this case. His inquiries were not yet complete, and he applied for a remand for eight days or sooner.

The accused was remanded for eight days.

DETAINED DOCUMENTS.

DAMAGES AGAINST FIRE INSURANCE ASSESSORS.

On Thursday, at Green street Courthouse, Dublin, Dr. Sherlock and a jury heard the undefended action brought by Michael McGuigan, of Lisdoo, Dundalk, against Messrs. Walter Hume and Co., fire insurance assessors, College Green, Dublin, for damages because of the detention of certain documents to which the plaintiff was entitled. The defendants had, by inadvertence, allowed judgment to go by default, and the case came before the Under Sheriff and a jury for the assessment of damages.

It appeared that the plaintiff was insured with the Yorkshire Insurance Company against loss by fire to shop goods in the store at Lisdoo. A fire occurred there in May, 1923. The plaintiff, along with his claim, deposited invoices and receipts with the defendants, and when the plaintiff wanted the documents back the defendants refused to give them. The result was that the plaintiff was unable to resume business, and his loss in consequence was estimated at £5 a week.

The jury assessed the damage at £100.

ALLEGED BOGUS COLLECTION FOR CHARITY.

James M'Gill, no fixed address, was remanded in the Dublin Police Court on Thursday on charges of seeking and obtaining charitable contributions under false pretences. Captain M. H. Clark, "Lismoy," Temple Gardens, giving evidence, said that the defendant called to his house and asked for a contribution towards the Cab and Car Owners' Benevolent Society. The witness handed him over to the police. "Rathmines," complained the witness, "is a hotbed of these gentlemen coming round and forcing their way into private houses. The women are terrified. I think it is a public duty my coming here."

HOLY THURSDAY AT THE PRO-CATHEDRAL.

At the Pro-Cathedral, Marlborough street, on Holy Thursday the ceremonies appropriate to the occasion were carried out in the presence of a large congregation.

The Most Rev. Dr. Byrne, Archbishop of Dublin, consecrated the Holy Oils and pontificated at the High Mass. The deacons of the Mass were the Rev. John Murphy and the Rev. J. Doyle, Holy Cross College, Clonliffe. The assistant deacons were the Rev. P. Dunlea, C.C., and the Rev. J. Hurley. The assistant priest was the Very Rev. M. McMahon, Vice-President of Holy Cross College, Clonliffe, and the master of ceremonies was the Rev. M. Murphy, C.C., Pro-Cathedral.

The Archbishop was assisted in the consecration of the Holy Oils by twelve priests, seven deacons and seven sub-deacons, in the vestments of their Orders.

After the High Mass a procession was formed to the Altar of Repose in St. Kevin's Chapel, and His Grace imparted his blessing. The ceremonies concluded with Vespers and the denudation of the high altar.

In the evening the Office of Tenebrae was chanted.

THE RAILWAYS BILL.

DUBLIN PORT BOARD'S ATTITUDE.

"GROWING APPREHENSION."

At a meeting of the Dublin Port and Docks Board on Thursday, Senator James Moran, Chairman, said that since the last meeting of the Board President Cosgrave had explained the Government's proposals for the unification of certain railways in the Free State. A special Committee of the Board had been appointed to consider these proposals, and several meetings had taken place during the week.

Without anticipating the decisions of the special Committee, the Chairman said that the Government's proposals were regarded with growing apprehension by the members of the Board. A close scrutiny of the bill and of the President's explanation, so far from allaying their anxiety, had confirmed their worst anticipations as to its effect upon the trade of the country generally, and upon the welfare of the Port of Dublin in particular.

Realising their responsibilities as citizens and as public representatives, they were considering whether—and in what respects—amendments might be framed to make the bill less intolerable than it was in its present form. Whether such amendments were possible was still in doubt, but if agreement were to be reached it could only be upon the basis of modifications of a very substantial and far-reaching character.

In conclusion, the Chairman said that he wished to assure the Government and the public that whatever line of policy the Board would adopt in the matter would be guided solely by their considerd judgment as to what was best for the Port of Dublin and for the country at large.

In reply to a member, the Chairman said that a Sub-Committee had been appointed by the special Committee, and when that Sub-Committee reported back every member of the special Committee would be summoned to deal with the report.

Alderman W. O'Brien said that it should not be understood that every member of the Board was in agreement with the Chairman's statement in regard to the Board's line of policy in reference to the bill. In his opinion, the Chairman was speaking as the representative of the interests of the particular business men who formed the majority of the Board.

The Chairman—No, sir.

Alderman O'Brien said that he was interested in the welfare of the port but the interests of the country came first.

The Chairman—I tried to make that clear.

EX-SOLDIER'S CLAIM FOR WORK.

Mr. Mallon, Engineer, reported that there was no work in his department for Mr. Patrick Murray, a former employé. Mr. Murray left his employment to join the Army, and was demobilised from the Army last October, since when he had been without employment.

Mr. P. T. Daly said it was amazing that no work could be found for this man, who, when joining up, was assured that he would be taken back on completion of his term of military service. Even the man's union had been so assured.

Mr. Mallon, the engineer, explained that the man had been merely a temporary employé. It was his own wish to join the Army, and at that time the mechanical engineer told him that if there was any work to be done when he obtained his discharge from the Army he would be taken on again. There was no work for him now, and the man who was taken on when he left was now doing a class of work for which Mr. Murray was unsuitable.

A resolution, proposed by Mr. Daly and seconded by Mr. Paul, that Mr. Murray be re-employed, was defeated by a large majority.

SERIES OF MURDERS.

CHARGES AGAINST TWO COUNTY CORK MEN.

At Cork District Sessions on Thursday, John Nyhan and Thomas Lane, Clonakilty, were remanded in custody charged with conspiring, with others, to murder, and aiding in the murder, of Michael Keany, District Inspector, R.I.C., Volunteer Michael McDonnell, and Jerome Reilly, Postmaster, Lackenduff.

Nyhan was also charged with robbing an Excise Officer, and Lane was charged with being concerned in the murder of Robert Nagle at Barrack street, Clonakilty, on December 26, 1922.

SACKVILLE STREET.

DUBLIN CORPORATION AND REBUILDING.

Alderman J. Hubbard Clark, Chairman of the Special Committee appointed by the Dublin Corporation to expedite the rebuilding of the Upper Sackville street ruined area, informed a representative of the Irish Times that the plans for necessary street improvements were ready, and had been provisionally approved by the Government.

The original intention with regard to the widening of Cathedral street was to take in about half the site of the premises formerly occupied by the Dublin United Tramways Company, but according to the final plans the whole site will be absorbed.

Under the bill which is being promoted by the Corporation that body will have power, where a site remaining after the street improvement is unsuitable for building by itself, to acquire any site adjoining. This right Alderman Hubbard Clark says, will probably be exercised in respect of the premises Nos. 24 and 25 Upper Sackville street.

The City Architect has prepared designs for the new buildings, with which the owners of property will be expected to conform generally. The Committee are willing to anticipate the passing into law of the new bill, and to give their approval for rebuilding on the sites of Nos. 11 to 17 and 20 to 23, provided that the elevation and plans conform to the requirements.

The Corporation will also have power under the bill to advance portion of the cost of rebuilding on terms similar to those in operation in connection with the Reconstruction Act of 1916. Alderman Clark pointed out that there was no suggestion that the Government would provide the Corporation with the necessary funds, so that they would be forced to borrow in the open market, unless the bill were amended in this respect.

DERRY POSTMAN FINED.

OBSTRUCTED TRAFFIC WITH HIS HANDCART.

Andrew Matchett, a postman, was fined 2s. 6d. at Derry Petty Sessions on Thursday for obstructing the thoroughfare at the Guildhall on the occasion of the opening of the Arts and Crafts Exhibition by the Duchess of Abercorn. He was making his rounds delivering parcels, and it appears that his handcart obstructed the progress of motor cars conveying visitors to the exhibition.

Mr. Anderson, J.P., said that the defendant had a perfect right to do as he did, no matter who was going to the Guildhall.

The defendant said that he had delivered parcels at Bank House and proceeded to the Guildhall to deliver a parcel there. As the front entrance was blocked up with Girl Guides, he moved his cart round to the Whittaker street corner, where he caused absolutely no obstruction. When he had delivered the parcel at the rear and returned he found that the police had pushed the cart out into the middle of the street.

Mr. Anderson considered that the police had gone too far in the case, but Mr. Cahill, D.I., said that he took full responsibility for it, and he was not ashamed of it.

Mr. Semple, J.P., remarked that a little tact on the defendant's part would have obviated all the trouble.

Thousands of ladies keep a box of Martin's Pills in the house. Those who use them recommend them, hence their enormous sale. Price 5s. Sold by all Chemists and Stores; or post free from Proprietors, Martin, Chemists, Southampton.—(Advt.)

Mr Frederick Wellman, 90, a Crimean and Indian Mutiny veteran, has died at Hassocks, Sussex.

ROBBERS ON DERRY BORDER.

MONEY TAKEN FROM FREE STATE POST OFFICE.

A daring raid took place early yesterday morning on the premises of Moses Vance, Churchtown, Co. Donegal, from which over £200 were stolen.

The premises are in the Free State, a few miles from the Derry border, and are used as a post office. The raiders effected an entrance through a window and took away £50 in money and the balance in postal money orders.

The robbery was committed while the occupants of the house were asleep, and was not discovered until they got up.

It is believed to have been perpetrated by robbers from Derry City, who were reported a few days ago to have occupied an empty house on the Free State side of the border in Donegal.

The Civic Guard are scouring the Free State side and the border for the gang, and the Derry Constabulary, who have been notified, are also keeping a look-out.

ARMED ROBBERY AT RANELAGH.

MAN WOUNDED BY REVOLVER SHOT.

A determined attempt was made on Thursday night to prevent an armed robbery at the public-house, 32 Elmgrove, Ranelagh, Dublin. It resulted in a shooting incident.

Shortly after 10 o'clock three men entered the premises, pulled out revolvers, and "held up" the staff and customers. As the place was crowded, one of the raiders stood on guard at the door, another backed towards the wall and covered the occupants with his weapon, while the third man went behind the counter and broke open a drawer which contained money.

Notes and silver to the amount of £4 15s. were taken, and the robber was about to leave the premises when a customer rushed at him and got into grips. A shot was fired and the customer staggered backwards, bleeding from a wound in the left wrist. The "gunmen" ran from the shop into the street, and were followed by the man at the door, whose revolver was still smoking.

The wounded man is Patrick Flynn, a labourer, of 13 Westmoreland avenue, Ranelagh. He was admitted to the City of Dublin Hospital, and is now doing well.

The robbers, who are still at large, are said to be between 25 and 35 years of age.

NORTHERN INTERNEES.

ARMAGH CITY COUNCIL AND QUESTION OF RELEASE.

At a special meeting of the Armagh City Council last night—Mr. Patrick Hughes presiding—Mr. John Nugent proposed a resolution calling on the Northern Government, in the interests of peace, justice and humanity, to grant the unconditional release of all Northern internees.

Mr. P. J. McGarvey, seconding the resolution, said that, in view of peace and harmony having been restored and as the judges of assize for Northern Ireland had declared that the country had returned to normal, there was absolutely no justification for keeping the men interned.

Mr. Frank Short described the proposing of the resolution as a purely political "stunt" a few weeks preceding the County Council election, and on that account he could not support it.

Mr. Cecil Walker, Unionist, referred to the resolution as nonsensical. The Northern Government had interned all the gunmen they could lay hands on, and the result was that order was restored and that Northern Ireland was now the most law-abiding part of the British Empire. He protested strongly against the resolution.

Messrs. Pinkerton and McDonald, Unionists, also protested against the resolution.

The Chairman said that the resolution was no "political stunt."

Mr. Nugent said that at every public meeting held under Hibernian auspices during the last twelve months resolutions had been passed appealing to the Northern Government to release the internees. He strongly repudiated the suggestion that the resolution was a "political stunt" or that his party had anything to gain by promoting it.

The motion was rejected by six votes to five, Messrs. Short, O'Hagan, F. Hughes, and M. Mullan, Nationalists, refraining from voting.

COUNTY TIPPERARY RAID.

YOUNG MAN ACQUITTED AT CLONMEL SESSIONS.

At Clonmel Quarter Sessions on Wednesday, Michael Heaphy was found not guilty of conspiring to murder John Macken, and of participating in a raid on Macken's house, Clogheen, on the 30th September last.

Mrs. Catherine Macken gave evidence of the raid on the house. She identified accused as having been one of the raiders, although she admitted that at the Cahir Sessions she had identified his brother as the guilty party.

Michael Heaphy, father of the accused, deposed that on the night of the raid the accused came home before 9 p.m. and remained indoors all night.

James Heaphy, a brother of the accused, in the course of his evidence, said that he (witness) saw the raid in progress at Macken's. The prisoner was not there, and could not have been there without his knowledge. The witness claimed to know the raiders.

County Court Judge Sealy, in his summing up, said that the attempt by the defence to set up an alibi did not seem to him very satisfactory. Having weighed all the evidence, he was of the opinion that the Heaphys were undoubtedly concerned in the affair, but he left it to the jury to decide "what thimble the pea was under."

On the jury's verdict of "not guilty" being announced, the accused was discharged.

LORD MUSKERRY'S LOSS.

Scotland Yard detectives are engaged in investigating the circumstances of the theft of a Gladstone bag belonging to Lord Muskerry.

His flat at 59a, Kensington Gardens square, London, W., was broken into and ransacked, but the only article stolen was an old Gladstone bag bearing the date November 28, 1873, and the initial M.

It contained a quantity of jewellery, including a pearl necklace, and a number of official and Parliamentary papers.

He is ten months' old James Victor Noonan, of Bradford, who is on his way to his grandmother in Quebec. His mother is dead and his father is a railway employé at Bradford. During the voyage he will be under the special care of the ship's matron.

NORTHERN SCHOOLS.

PROSPECTS UNDER THE NEW EDUCATION ACT.

Discussing the Northern Education Act at a public meeting in the Antrim road Schoolhouse, Belfast, the Rev. D. D. Boyle, M.A., a member of the Belfast Education Committee, said that they aimed at securing under the new régime good character, good capacity, and good citizenship, and the Committee would have to solve such problems as the overloading of the curriculum, the overcrowding of the classes, and the provision of adequate equipment.

With reference to school attendance, he declared emphatically that the days of playing fast and loose were over, and that the school attendance officers would henceforward exercise an authority they never had before. The Act opened up a new era for the children of primary schools.

Alderman Duff, M.P., Chairman of the Education Committee, said he believed that once the meaning of the Act was elucidated, once its principles permeated to the people, an enthusiasm would be awakened which would make it one of the greatest blessings ever handed down to the inhabitants of Ulster.

IF I HAD THE MONEY!

What is your dream ?
Is it some day to own your house ?—or to buy a farm ?—or to set up in business for yourself ?

Perhaps your own dream is none of these, yet almost certainly you will need more money than you have now before it can come true.

What is your dream ?
Is it to give your children a better start in life than you had ?—to give your boy a college training ?—to settle a comfortable sum on your daughter when she marries ?

A dream which is worth dreaming is one for which it is also worth while to save.

START NOW TO MAKE YOUR DREAM COME TRUE.

What is your dream ?
Is it some day to own a car ?—to see something of this country of ours ?—to travel, perhaps, and see the greater world ?

SPEND WISELY. SAVE ALL THE MONEY YOU CAN.

A little saved each week means a lot at the end of your money invested in Savings Certificates grows at the rate of 5¼ p.c. compound interest. The security is safe; there is no income Tax to pay, and withdrawal is easy.

Your weekly savings will grow into a small fortune if you invest them regularly in Savings Certificates. Not only will your savings increase as week by week you put them by, but the money itself will grow.

Each 15/6 you save up and put into Certificates grows into 15/9 after you have kept it in one year. Then it grows at the rate of 1d. per month until by the end of the 5th year it is worth £1. That is a clear profit of 4/6 on every 15/6—and it is safe.

You can buy Savings Certificates from any Bank or Post Office, but your best plan is to

BORDON CAMP MURDER.

ALLEGED CONFESSION BY GOLDENBERG.

"I swear that there is on one else in the matter, and I take all the blame on myself. Although I have treated the matter with such staggering coldness, I am not mad.

"I am perfectly sane, as far as I know. I swear I am sorry for Mr. Hall, and I swear I am sorry for poor Mrs. Hall. I did not know that he was married."

The above is taken from one of two remarkable statements alleged to have been made by Lance-Corporal Abraham Goldenberg, 21, of the East Lancashire Regiment, who is charged with the murder of Mr. Hall, the bank manager, at Bordon Camp on the 3rd instant.

In one statement Goldenberg confesses to being guilty, and says that the reason he committed the crime was in order to get money to enable him to get married. At first he did not propose to do Mr. Hall any harm, but on maturer thoughts he came to see that he should have to shoot him.

The second statement is by way of being a description of the actual commission of the crime and the circumstances leading up to it. According to it Goldenberg borrowed a revolver, stole five rounds of ammunition, and on the day of the crime went to the bank about 12.30 p.m., handed in the pass-book, looked round and went out, deciding to return again.

He returned in a few minutes and called on Mr. Hall to put up his hands.

"He did not do so, but dived for a drawer in the counter, and before I knew it a shot went off.

"In a flash I realised it was I who had done it, and again before I realised it I pressed the trigger and he fell. I don't know whether the first shot hit him. It seemed as if a red cloud were in front of me, and not for a couple of minutes did I realise what had happened."

The statements were read at Alton on Thursday, when Goldenberg appeared before the magistrates, charged with the murder.

Mr. Peevor, in stating the case for the Crown, said that on April 8 Goldenberg was being watched by a bandsman in the East Lancashire Regiment and by a serjeant-major. He was seen to go into a compartment of a lavatory, and immediately afterwards the serjeant-major, going there, found a packet of 500 £1 Treasury notes.

Goldenberg was immediately placed under arrest and taken away by the police. He was cautioned and told that he would be charged and replied, "Yes, yes, yes." When inside the cell he said to Superintendent Jones, "I am guilty. I will tell you everything after I have had some tea."

Mr. Peevor, continuing, said that the accused had endeavoured, subsequent to making the above statements, to implicate a "curious man named Meredith." Even if Meredith really existed and had a part in the crime, it was the duty of the magistrates to commit Goldenberg to take his trial for murder.

The hearing was adjourned until May 1.

BOOKS OF THE WEEK.

PITT AND NELSON.

We are glad to receive the third volume of the Farington Diary, which takes the story from 1804 to 1806. Perhaps, the outstanding difference between the Napoleonic Wars and our Great War is this—the former was an age of great men as well as of great events, whereas ours is an age of great events, but not of great men. On November 7th, 1804, Lawrence draws our attention to the superiority of Pitt to his party. "It did not," we learn, "prevent social conversation, but all seemed to be impressed with awe of him. At times it appeared like boys with their master. When he spoke it was not extended to much talk, but rather pithy remarks and frequently sarcastic observation." The celebrated pedagogue, Samuel Parr, was mentioned before Pitt as a violent man who seemed to have some principle. "As much," thought Pitt, "as would allow him to be a High Churchman or a violent Jacobin." Great expectations had been formed by the friends of Parr that extraordinary effects upon the Government would be produced by his introduction to Bellendus. "I was to be turned out," said Pitt, "by a preface." Pitt gave Parr credit, however, for ability by saying to Lord Abercorn, who had repeated a keen satire of Parr's upon Sir James Mackintosh, the lawyer, "I am glad he attacked me in Greek."

On January 21st, 1806, General Phipps adds to our knowledge. He informs us that two years previously, at Walmer Castle, Pitt had a husky cough which he himself thought to be gouty. Phipps plainly thought that Pitt was in the habit of taking too much stimulant, but this habit of Pitt's was the custom of the age. Sir Walter Farquhar advised Pitt to have a mutton chop, highly peppered, every day at two o'clock, and to be so strict in this rule as to direct himself to be called out, no matter who was with him at that hour. We are a shade more surprised to hear that Phipps believed that Pitt took too much exercise when any occasion prompted him. Wishing one day to speak to General Dundas, Pitt rode to Canterbury and back, a distance of thirty-eight miles, but this effort proved too much for the statesman. It is pleasant to know that "the anxiety of people to see him while he was there was very great. One man came by a coach 139 miles to see him, and, having been gratified, immediately returned home."

The Napoleonic Wars lasted from 1793, with the brief interval of the Peace of Amiens, to 1815. We who have borne the strain of the Great War from 1914 to 1918 can realise faintly something of what our great-grandfather bore for almost a generation. The babies of 1793 grew to be boys and girls, and the boys and girls grew to be young men and women, and still the war went on. It is not the least of the merits of this engrossing diary that it enables us to realise the strain which men, for the sake of liberty, were content to endure. At the end of twelve years of war the battle of Austerlitz was fought, and Pitt learnt that in this terrific contest the arms of the French had been once more victorious. The iron entered even his stoic soul. "Roll up the map of Europe," he said; "it will not be wanted these ten years." In 1815 the ten years were due, and Waterloo brought the answer for which the soul of Pitt sighed in vain. We read that "the General (Phipps) spoke of the extraordinary firmness of Mr. Pitt's mind. When the account of the affair at Ulm was brought to him he was playing with some children, and went on with them without any visible alteration in his manner. He received the account of the Battle of Austerlitz while he was at Bath, and with the same firmness. He looked over a map with the General to consider the country in which it took place. General Phipps said he was of opinion that Mr. Pitt's constitution was worn out by gouty dispositions and by the habit of taking too much stimulants. Care of mind, which always affects the stomach, must have had a bad effect upon him."

This third volume is too tragical to pay much attention to the artists. We turn to Lord Nelson, who attained the same rank at sea that Napoleon attained on land. Farington was spending his holidays in Norfolk when the news of the victory of Trafalgar came to England. A little later the diarist went to Burnham Thorpe, and was "sorry to find that the Rectory House, in which Lord Nelson was born, was pulled down by the present rector, who has built a new house a little higher up than where the late house stood." There is the pathetic story of Nelson's final separation from his wife: Farington comments that before Nelson's "unfortunate acquaintance with Lady Hamilton, it does not appear that anything had interrupted their domestic happiness." We glean from Captain (afterwards Admiral Sir Robert) Moorsom, who commanded the Revenge at Trafalgar, that before the battle Nelson did not appear to be in bad health. "He eat and drank with seeming appetite, but eat chiefly at dinner macaroni, which showed that his appetite required some artificial stimulant." At the funeral of the naval genius, Captain Hardy told Boydell, the publisher, that "from long habit of walking the quarter-deck together, his steps and those of Lord Nelson were of equal length; that they were walking together (at Trafalgar) and had reached the end of the quarter-deck when Lord Nelson stopped and turned suddenly for some purpose; that he proceeded two steps more and, turning, saw his lordship had fallen on the deck and two sailors supporting him; that he went up to his lordship and expressed the hope that he was not mortally wounded; that Lord Nelson said his back was broke."

A CONSUL IN THE EAST.

In 1883 Mr. Wratislaw passed the examination of Student Interpreter, and by July of the same year found himself at Ortakeuy, a Turkish village about three miles from Galata. Here he was assigned teachers to learn Turkish, Arabic, Persian and Greek. With no excessive amount of application he found himself able within a year to translate, with the help of a dictionary, almost anything which appeared in the Turkish newspapers. His first post was at Salonica. Some seventy thousand of the inhabitants are Jews, driven from Spain during the persecutions of the fifteenth century. These people still speak Spanish, writing it in Hebrew characters. The Turkish official expects his douceur, but the Vali at Smyrna, who openly counted, coin by coin, a sum of £500 paid to him by an English mining promoter, was guilty of a breach of the good taste which marks his race.

The Bulgarians delight in dancing the "Horo," a primitive measure devoid of steps or even lively movement. To go through this dance before a house is a mark of special favour for the residents, and, in this truly democratic country, a Prime Minister may be seen tripping it with a plough-boy. Bulgarian elections were rather simple in 1898. "Sopejis," armed with clubs, affectionately called "The Constitution," knocked on the head anyone voting against the Government. Ferdinand's son and heir, born in 1893, was baptised a Roman Catholic, out of deference for his father-in-law, but the Orthodox Church gained an unconscious proselyte in 1906 when the child was rebaptised to purchase the good-will of the Tsar. Vermin-infested beds prevail in Bulgaria. Indeed, such notices as "Guests are forbidden to go to bed in their boots," or "Guests should refrain from spitting on the walls," figure in the bedrooms of country inns.

The Constantinople massacre of 1896 was a reprisal for the plotting conducted by Armenian secret societies. Guided by police, the Turkish mob, "in high spirits and laughing like children on a holiday," butchered nearly 8,000 Armenians in one day. The remonstrances of foreign embassies produced no effect on the bland composure of Abdul Hamid, and it was not until the following night that he moved, when troops were hurried down and order restored as if by magic. A commission appointed to inquire into the losses sustained by British subjects reported a sum of £20,000 due. The Turks simply refused to pay, and finally the amount was tacked on to the cost of a cruiser built for them by Messrs. Armstrong. In this way probably a crisis was averted.

During his years in Persia Mr. Wratislaw learnt much of the Kurds. After every rising they were invariably invited to a conference by the Persian Government, and, unable to resist the hankering after the interior of a city, invariably accepted the invitation, to be invariably murdered. One of the many interesting illustrations shows a Turkish guerilla, Jaffer Agha, hanging head downwards from the walls of Tabriz. An Irishman named Moore fought on the losing side at the siege of Tabriz—for what reason no one save himself seemed to be aware. His conduct put the Embassy in a rather awkward position, but Moore got through, and lived to fight later on as an Air Force officer in Salonica. The account of the latter place during the war is worth reading. Despite the fall of Palestine, the Jews in the city informed Mr. Wratislaw that they had no intention of moving to the land of their fathers. This book of memoirs eminently justifies its existence.

WITH A DONKEY IN SPAIN.

The authors of this book, bent on finding out something of the traditional music and songs of Spain (though their quest, save for some interesting examples, which they give, was fruitless), selected an area of Spain most remote from railways, and tramped with a donkey and cart for about three hundred miles in the Sierra Nevada country, from Murcia to Almira, thence north-west to Granada and south-west to Malaga. These four large towns—almost cities—were in every respect the least interesting halts on the tour. It is the wayside posadas in the mountain roads that produce the real atmosphere—these and the curious wayfarers, including the tribes of carters, whom they met with by the way.

It is probably true, as the publishers say, that George Borrow's "Bible in Spain" is rather a picture of Borrow than of Spain, but the gipsy life that haunts all Borrow's books clearly has its origin on Spanish soil. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon are not reminiscent of anyone, not even of R. L. Stevenson's classic in the same vein. They are more matter-of-fact than either of these authors, and it is not in depreciation of their work to say that they lack the charm of the earlier writers. They have a robust sense of humour that helps them over what must have been actual hardships, as when on the top of the Sierra Nevada in the middle of the night, drenched with rain and perished with cold, they were turned off as tramps by surly innkeepers, and when hour after hour under a burning sun they toiled through the heavy sands of Almira. To make up for such discomforts they strike off the amusing pictures of the derelict Professor Pilomville; "'Arees," the descendant of some veteran of the Peninsular War, preserving after four generations all the English traits of his ancestor; or the bank clerk who is so officious and over-zealous that it is impossible for his customers to explain what they really want. The variations in the posadas or inns afford endless food for description; for there all the life of the real Spain can be seen. One is in a world there of the East, not of Europe. "We returned to the cheerful entrada, where over the fire Mariana was cooking for us a tasty dish of Murcian rice and chicken, flavoured with onions and to be tinted with saffron, which the servant girl was beating up in a brass mortar."

The scenery of this part of Spain is not imposing, even though the mountains rise to considerable heights. They are bare and gaunt, burnt even in June, and it is only when the thunderstorms burst, when "crags and peaks appeared and were engulfed, wraiths of clouds swirled up the gorges, building against the dark background battlements of strange formation," that they become picturesque. The people are the interest; yet, like many primitive folk, they are not lovable—life is too hard to make them so. The crayon sketches supply a useful commentary to the text, and it is of interest, in view of the close relations which once existed between Ireland and Spain, to find among these drawings faces identical in all respects with the typical Irish horse-dealer or a Galway woman. The sketch of the egg-merchant might have been drawn from life in the City of Cork by any of our present-day Irish artists.

GESTA ROMANORUM.

Swan's translation of the "Gesta Romanorum" was first published in 1824, and now appears in a fine new edition, with a shrewd preface by Dr. Ernest Barker. The original work was compiled somewhere about 1300 A.D., being a collection of "moral tales," which did not always justify, in the modern sense of the word, the moral describing them. Odd, fantastic mediæval legends are jumbled with exotic tales from the East, and "Applications" are added, turning the anecdotes into religious allegories. It is obvious enough that the genial monks who wrote down many of the stories were more concerned with the narrative value than the moral lesson capable of being extorted by their ingenious interpretations. There is little literary merit in the telling of the tales, though Swan's English is excellent; but the book was drawn on by Boccaccio, and provided plots for many poets from Chaucer to Schiller and Rossetti. The longest and most effectively told tale is that from which Shakespeare drew the story of Marina's sorrows and perils; it is here entitled "Of Temporal Tribulation." It occupies over thirty close pages, and seems so to have perplexed its narrator in search of a moral that it has no "application" at all.

The following is an example of what pleased the merry monks:—". . . Valerius Maximus states that when all the Syracusans desired the death of Dionysius, King of Sicily, a single woman every morning entreated the gods to continue his life and his sovereignty. Dionysius, surprised at this solitary exception, inquired the reason. She answered, 'When I was a girl and governed by a tyrant, I wished for his removal, and presently we obtained a worse instead. Having got rid of him, a worse still succeeded; and, therefore, under the justifiable apprehension that your place may be filled up by a very devil, I pray earnestly for your longer continuance.' Dionysius, hearing this, gave her no further trouble. Application—My beloved, be not desirous of change."

MR. MACHEN'S ESSAYS.

Mr. Arthur Machen needs no introduction as an essayist of scholarly attainments and sound old English principles. His heart is with the old days, and he is at his best when telling of old customs and old places, when holding forth on "roast goose, with a dissertation on apple sauce," on valentines, or on St. George and the Dragon. In this degenerate age we have neither the appetites nor the liberties of the Victorians: even the London fogs are inferior to "the fogs of yesteryear." We have lost our taste in literature, and discard Dickens for "Luntic Kolnyatsch in the original Gibrisch." Yesterday a verger in Tewkesbury Minster could show just where the dead were laid after the battle; for his people had been vergers and clerks there since the fifteenth century. To-day all the invisible wealth of traditional knowledge has been blotted out. "The old folk-memory is dead; we have killed it with our silly schools and our rubbishy books."

Mr. Machen comes from Caerleon-upon-Usk (name of glamour!)—the "City of the Legions." In his youth the children of that little town used to celebrate New Year's Day by sticking bits of gold-leaf into an apple, with sprigs of box, setting hazel-nuts on the box-leaves; this odd erection they would carry from house to house, getting cakes and sweets and ale. Nobody knew what it all meant; but Mr. Machen knows. The apple, with its gold-leaf and nuts, is a symbol dating back to the days when the Second Augustan Legion brought over the custom from Gaul—a custom alluded to by Martial. Mr. Machen has an eye for these romantic survivals, and his essays keep the imagination stirred and delighted. If he would begin his sentences and paragraphs less frequently with "and" and "but," he would spare the reader one trifling irritation.

LOVE-LETTERS.

The hurry and rush of modern life have killed the leisurely art of letter-writing. We have little time for dreaming and none at all for the passing on of our reflections in letters. Yet, while there are lovers, so long will impassioned outpourings bridge the gulf of separation. "The reader who has never written such letters, never received such letters, is greatly to be pitied; for without such generous altruism life is but a Barmecide's feast of empty dishes." Of all letters, surely these should be most sacred, most reserved to the one who inspired them. But no! The fierce light that beats upon the great spares nothing. The letters speak for themselves, even though we have not always the key of their circumstance. From the poets and literary men come the finest: Carlyle's to his wife would make one think that her unhappiness in later life was not altogether of his making.

Women are the best letter-writers. Here even the frail beauties of France's eighteenth century salons retain a charm with the pen that pleads for them when the charms that were their undoing are dust. Some of the feeling is taken from Burns's lyrics by his letters quoted here, while Napoleon and Von Blucher, on the other hand, seem more human and loveable in theirs. Victor Hugo to Adele and Goethe to Lotte, Keats to Fanny, Dickens to Kate, Shelly to Mary Godwin, Bismarck to his "dear Johanna," are some of the countless letters which thrill us with the Promethean fire that burns in varying degree through all the letters of the book. The editor has classified them carefully, while his notes on "the ideal love-letter" speak to the sympathy with which he set about his task. The letters invoke pictures of a past day. Beau Brummell, for instance, brings the whole life of fashion at Bath in 1703 before us thus: "All the morning was passed in saying, 'How d'ye do'? and all the afternoon in saying, 'What's trumps'"? We must like the writers of these letters better for having read them—which, after all, is the book's best apology. Of its interest there is no question.

RECENT FICTION.

It is a pity that Mr. Sandys has dated his story so definitely as post-war; for it is a highly romantic and un-twentieth century tale. Sally Serene has been brought up by a Kentish innkeeper, but her parentage is unknown. When she is eighteen she meets two men who completely alter the course of her life. One is a fabulous millionaire, Count Zebda of Etruria, and the other a very gallant English lord. The Kingdom of Etruria is in a state of civil war, and its King Carlos is driven to England by the revolutionary party. Early in the story we learn that a locket worn by Sally contains a portrait of the deposed King, and this very transparent mystery is ingeniously developed. Sally is almost irritatingly unsophisticated, but the love story is prettily handled, and some of the more exciting incidents are contrived with skill.

The hero of "Card Castle" is a flourishing business man, with a wife and two sons, who feels at thirty that life has failed him. We are told that he has not had many adventures in his life, but he is curiously familiar with shady restaurants, and when he drifts into a liaison with his brother-in-law's wife he appears to be at home in the rôle of deceiver. Mr. Waugh is a keen observer of manners and customs, but spiritual forces seem to be a closed book to him. It is difficult to know what impression Muriel, the neglected wife, is meant to convey, while Beatrice is hardly differentiated from her more lowly sisters of the streets. Mr. Waugh has produced better work than "Card Castle."

In "Picture Frames" Miss Winslow gives us a series of photographic representations of the lives of a variety of American middle-class people. Her characters are familiar types. There is the girl who dreamt of romance and missed reality; the social climber who snatched the only "eligible" in a small community; the girl who went to New York to seek adventure and found work and a dull, but worthy, husband; the old lady whose relations put up with her in turn, but who deluded herself into believing that they fought for the privilege. These and half a dozen other types are studied in this book with much care and skill.

Mr. Whitechurch presents another of his thrilling clerical dilemmas, of which a bishop is the central figure. It is with a view to a rest-cure that the dignified bishop of Lenchester enters, incognito, into the duties, temporarily, of a sleepy agricultural parish. He adapts himself very creditably to the irksome routine of the country parson; but there are more perplexing matters, including the matrimonial intentions of a crafty widow, and a crook of the same name as his own, whose sins are attributed to him. Out of all this the author has spun an amusing yarn with wonted dexterity.

"A Bishop Out of Residence." By Victor L. Whitechurch. T. Fisher Unwin. 7/6 net.

Mr. Ashley Sterne knows how to write funny stories. What higher tribute can be paid to an author in these days? He tells us to take his book in small doses—one tale at a time, and the advice ought to be followed. The Nihilist who had worked in the caviare mines and carried on his conspiracies in a café where the company sat drinking tomsk, tobolsk, nijni-novgorod, knôut, moujik, is most amusing. The love-story of Pyjama San, the Geisha, and the tale of Derrick—expensively educated, first at Borstal and finally at the Correspondence School of Bed-Knob Designing at Knobsworth, Beds—like much of the book, have the misplaced phrases which were such an addition to the stories of O. Henry. Perhaps, the highest tribute to the author is that he recalls the great American writer of short stories.

THE NONDESCRIPT.

(BY "M.")

WHEN I joined the mail train at Crewe, en route for the land of my heart, I found him already in possession of the third class compartment. He was engaged in eating biscuits supplied by an elderly lady, who looked at him adoringly, and truth compels me to admit that he greeted me with curses, "not loud, but deep," the while he blew fragments of biscuit through his busy mouth.

For the nondescript was a dog, and he did not approve of complete strangers who interrupted his refreshments, and who caused him to distribute a fresh supply of crumbs on an already liberally besprinkled floor.

His sad brown eyes never left his mistress's face while she drank some of the hastily-procured tea, the remainder then being poured into the saucer for the nondescript, who even thus betrayed his plebeian habits. By the time the great thirst induced by the crumby biscuits had been satisfied I had fallen a hopeless victim to the black, wiry "puss" of him and to the beautiful, faithful eyes. While he, on his part, soon came to the conclusion that, whatever the defects in my appearance might be, and however unfortunate my practice of arriving at meal times, at any rate I was a person who had the good sense to be "light" about dogs.

The long train gathered speed and thundered through the neat, trim fields on its way towards the restless Irish Sea, and slowly but surely slumber overcame the elderly lady, and the bright chain slipped from her fingers.

The nondescript was young, and lacked that poise gained by age and experience, and it very soon became evident that he was frightened through and through. The brown eyes flinched every time the train passed beneath a bridge, and presently he laid an appealing paw upon the arm of his slumbering mistress, but for once there was no response.

At the first sign of threatened panic I made overtures to the unaccustomed traveller, and patting my knees invitingly, urged him to accept my protection. And as, at that moment, the rushing train entered a tunnel, the nondescript hurled himself at me, and decided that any port in a storm were preferable to none. So we made the journey into Anglesey, past those deserted seaside resorts, in which the painters are busy smartening up the numerous boarding houses for the coming season.

The nondescript's black nose, hot with apprehension, worked unceasingly, as half-seen objects flew past the window, and occasionally he looked sadly and reproachfully at his unconscious mistress. As I watched him, I wondered idly how one would describe him, or to which breed he belonged; for, when I came to any decision about his head, it was rudely contradicted by the rest of his body, and vice versa. But to me it was enough that his funny, hairy face resembled that of the little anxious dog at home, who had wept at the sight of my half-packed suit case.

As we neared Holyhead the sleeper awoke; when, with a yelp of joy, the nondescript abandoned me, and greeted her with pathetic delight on her return from the trackless land of dreams. Just then the ticket collector entered, and, having examined the tickets, he addressed the awakened lady: "Have you a permit for him?" he asked, indicating the anxious-eyed dog, and upon receiving a satisfactory reply, the official withdrew.

"I wonder," I thought, "how they have described him in the permit," and the train slackened speed, and stopped beside the waiting boat. The hours that followed are best passed over in silence; but, during lucid intervals, I wondered about the nondescript, in a detached and painful manner; for such is the devastating effect upon me of a Channel crossing in January.

But all things, however bad, come to an end, and at last I found myself standing beside my open suit case, on a draughty pier, protesting that I had nothing to declare. And, as I stood, I felt two welcoming paws, and, turning, saw the nondescript and his mistress, looking the very picture of woe, in that scene of fuss and bustle. There were tears in the poor lady's eyes. "They say that he is wrongly described in the permit," she said, "and they do not think they can let him through." I was appalled at this catastrophe, and the nondescript wilted visibly. "He was described as a retriever," went on his mistress, regarding him sadly. The train seemed to be on the point of departing, so reluctantly I left them to their misery, and took my seat for Westland row.

Arrived there, I gathered my belongings together, and thought with infinite pity of my new friends in their plight.

Then, raising my eyes to a cab that was leaving the station, I laughed aloud in my relief. For the face at the window was that of the indescribable nondescript, and beside him, his mistress's hand waved me farewell.

THE BYRON CENTENARY.

The Poet and the Man.

(BY J. B.)

TO-DAY we celebrate the centenary of George Gordon Noel, Lord Byron. Across the intervening century we can feel to-day the same appeal which Byron exerted over his contemporaries, the appeal of a great personality expressing itself through the medium of poetry. Byron's poetry has many striking features—rhetorical directness, wonderful local colour, and amazingly versatile cynicism—but it is not read for any of these: it is read because we wish to know something about the lame poet with the perfect features and the diabolical philosophy.

Not even Shakespeare himself is more intriguing and baffling than Byron. There is plenty of information about him to be had: he is to all appearances the very essence of candour, and yet his personality eludes us. It is just this which gives the study of Byron its perennial interest.

The great difficulty in writing of Byron is that he is a person apart: he cannot be classified under any of the more or less well-defined types of genius. It seems to be the prerogative of a particular kind of genius to sin deeply and often, and so far Byron is true to character, but there the likeness ends. Other poets, Burns and Mangan, for instance, had grievous failings, but one has the feeling that, in spite of it all, they were not really bad fellows. Byron is not like that. He seems to stand apart from the common family of men: one has no feeling of forgiveness for him, because he asks none: his virtues and vices are so inextricably intertwined that they cannot be disentangled.

Parentage, which in some cases may go for nothing, is important in his case, because it gives some slight clue to the passionate wildness of the poet. Coming of a very old family, which traced its line back to the time of William the Conqueror, Byron's immediate predecessors all exhibited a strain of devilry almost amounting to insanity. The previous Lord Byron earned the title of "The Wicked Lord" for his exploit in killing his kinsman, Mr. Chaworth, in a duel without seconds. The poet's grandfather, an Admiral, was known as "Foulweather Jack" and his father as "Mad Jack." Unfortunately, the lady of "Mad Jack" Byron's choice, Miss Catherine Gordon, was also of a fiery temperament, and treated her son to alternate fits of tenderness and hysteria. Small wonder, then, that the son inherited all the wildness of his parents and added something more from his own fiery poetic spirit.

So much for Byron's ancestry. For the poet himself, there is no need to enlarge on the too well known facts of his career. His early attempts in poetry and the criticisms they aroused; his youthful travels; the scandal surrounding his marriage; his voluntary exile and death at Missilonghi, need no further publication than they have already received. A good deal of the mystery surrounding Byron's life might have been cleared up but for the fact that his memoirs were destroyed by Moore, who had been appointed his literary executor. Doubtless, Moore thought better that these should be destroyed than that he should gain the £2,000 which would have come to him on their publication at the expense of his friend's reputation. However, it is to the poems that we must finally turn to get an outline of Byron's personality.

Byron was not in any sense of the word a literary artist. His works, which were nearly all written at break-neck speed, show nothing of the elaborate polish and precision of lesser poets. They are the outpourings of a powerful mind, expressing itself with clearness and force rather than grace. The haste with which many of them were written may be judged from the fact that some lines had to be deciphered from the backs of concert programmes and old envelopes. It is not intended here to decry Byron's work on that account, though many of his best passages are not flawless by reason of this very haste, but it is merely pointed out to show the conditions under which the poems were written.

Two poems may be taken, both as being typical of the others and as exemplifying best Byron's style and outlook—they are, of course, "Childe Harold" and "Don Juan." In both of these we find the same kind of hero, a hero like Byron himself, young, handsome, well-born, but a revolutionary in the sphere of morals. He excels in every kind of gallant devilry, but derives no enjoyment from his excesses. Above all, he is noble; he has a greatness of character like Byron himself, but it is a flawed greatness, "the nobleness of a man somehow set apart, tragically in revolt, sinister yet beautiful, a nobleness predestined to work mischief." The character of this hero seems to be Byron's delineation of himself. It is a type of what has come to be known as "the Byronic figure," handsome, pale, cynical, and with a fatal smile.

There is a stanza in the third canto of "Childe Harold," which seems to sum up the essential tragedy of Byron's life. It runs as follows:—

In a moment we may plunge our years
  In fatal penitence, and in the blight
Of our own soul turn all our blood to tears,
  And colour things to come with hues of Night;
The race of life becomes a hopeless flight
  To those that walk in darkness: on the sea
The boldest steer but where their ports invite;
  But there are wanderers o'er Eternity
Whose bark drives on and on, and anchored ne'er shall be.

There is something terribly tragic about these lines when applied to a man of Byron's brilliant and fascinating personality. "He is cheerful, frank, and witty," wrote Shelley, "his more serious conversation is a sort of intoxication." Yet the dominant note of Byron's life is not cheerful wit, it is more closely allied to a "fatal penitence."

So we come to the question which will always be asked about those who figure largely in the public imagination—"was Byron a poseur or no?" The answer is not easy, yet there are some indications as to what it should be. One feels that the "Satanic" pose was merely a cloak to hide the real feelings of Byron's heart. He feigned a reckless and bitter cynicism, not to catch the public eye, but to hide the real bitterness that he wished to pass unnoticed. The more one reads of his poems the more pity one feels, because even through the gayest and most flippant passages a deeper note of despair may be heard. It is the despair of a man who feels that he has sinned unforgivably, and has nothing left to live for, and still worse, nothing left to die for.

However, Byron's life does not end on the note of despair. It is one of the ironies of his fate that from those last verses which he wrote none should be remembered save the two beginning,

My days are in the yellow leaf
The flowers and fruits of love are gone.

These are true enough, and very typical of the man and his work, but they entirely ignore the spirit of nobility and self-sacrifice which pervades Byron's last utterance in verse. If ever a suitable epitaph for Byron were written it is surely to be found in this line—

Nothing in his life became him like the leaving of it.

MAN OF ACTION AND CITIZEN OF THE WORLD.

(BY J. S. C.)

Byron is remembered as one of England's most brilliant poets. But he had two other ambitions, both of which were fulfilled—he desired above all things to be a man of action and a citizen of the world.

He entertained the most violent aversion from mere literary men, of whom he said "they are so very anxious, clever, fine and jealous, one doesn't know what to say to them." He contended again and again that a man ought to do more for society than write verses, and near his end he declared that he would rather die doing something than live doing nothing. Sometimes he would cry out that writing was not his vocation, and would threaten to suppress his work and call back existing copies.

He had a rooted dislike to fine talk in ordinary conversation. One evening in Venice, when Tom Moore began to appreciate the scenery and the sunset, he was flattened out by Byron snapping—"Come, damn it, Tom, don't be poetical." Again, a very good example of his un-literary behaviour is found in an incident in the fatal campaign devoted to the emancipation of Greece. Colonel Stanhope, an enthusiast for religious missions no less than for warfare, was allied with Byron. Stanhope wished to cover the Morea with Wesleyan tracts and liberate the country by the agency of the Press. Byron would not hear of it, but insisted on battle. So posterity is presented with the spectacle of the professional soldier bent on writing the Turks down, and the poet on fighting them down.

From all sides we hear of his extreme agility in many kinds of sport, especially in swimming; while a Venetian boatman said of him—"He is a good gondolier, spoilt by being a poet and a lord." It is impossible not to believe that the person who, with considerable danger to himself, rescued an Athenian girl about to be thrown into the sea by a party of janissaries, who pursued and challenged the drunken dragoon responsible for knocking Shelley off his saddle, who, on seeing that some men were buried in the fall of a bank on a Grecian road, snatched a spade, began to dig and threatened to horsewhip the howling natives unless they followed his example—it is impossible not to believe that the person who showed this spirit was something more than a poet.

It was partly owing to his spirit for adventure and partly owing to the fact that England made it too hot for him that he became such a great citizen of the world. Enough, perhaps, has been said by others about the domestic scandal which caused his exile. He left England because he had to; also because he wanted to. He left England because he considered that, if the scandals which were urged against him were true, he was unfit for England, and, if they were false, England was unfit for him.

The result was remarkable. He became not only the poet of England, but the poet of Spain, the poet of Italy, and the poet of Greece. "What," exclaims Castelar, "does not Spain owe to Byron? From his mouth came our hopes and fears. He has baptised us with his blood. There is no one with whose being some song of his is not woven. His life is like a funeral torch over our graves!" The feelings of the Italians, if we can believe Mazzini, were in much the same strain. France and Germany sang his praises. Greece went mad over him. His counsels were listened to like oracles his words warmed their blood like wine. They wanted to proclaim him King: they looked forward to his arrival in the fatal year of 1824 as to the coming of the Messiah. When he died on that campaign—after having thrown aside the lyre for the sword, and proved himself a capable General and a promising statesman—the cities of Greece, as Robert Nichol tells us, "contended for the body, as of old for the birth of a poet."

But in any case it was well for us and for him that he had to leave England. He was of such a passionate nature that the scenery of England would not have been sufficient to draw him out. He could never have conquered the world like Wordsworth from the quiet seclusion of the Westmorland Mountains. Not for him the small mountain or the crawling stream! Not for him the English lane that leads to paradise! His genius required movement, changing scenes, unconquered mountains, and the sweeping seas. His genius was exalted by the sight of historic cities that had "breathed joy and woe, long ago." The sight of Athens or Venice summoned up before him flaming visions of the ancient Athens that had shone like the lamp of wisdom, of the ancient Venice that had glittered like the sea around her.

BYRON AND IRELAND.

Although Byron never visited Ireland, he felt a strong interest in our country. In "The Irish Avator" he says:—

My voice, though but humble, was raised for thy right,
  My vote, as a freeman's, still voted thee free;
This hand, though but feeble, would arm in thy fight,
  And this heart, though outworn, had a throb still for thee.

. . . .

We all know his strong affection for Moore, who afterwards wrote his life, and his frequently expressed admiration for Grattan, Curran and Sheridan. "The Irish Avator" closes with the words:

The glory of Grattan and genius of Moore.

His lines written just before he sailed for the Continent in July, 1817, are, perhaps, scarcely as familiar to us as they ought to be.

To Thomas Moore.

My boat is on the shore,
  And my bark is on the sea,
But before I go, Tom Moore,
  Here's a double health to thee!

Here's a sigh to those who love me,
  And a smile to those who hate,
And whatever sky's above me
  Here's a heart for any fate.

Though the ocean roar around me
  Yet it still shall bear me on,
Though a desert should surround me
  It hath springs that may be won.

Wer't the last drop in the well,
  As I gasp'd upon the brink
Ere my fainting spirit fell,
  'Tis to thee that I would drink.

With that water, as this wine,
  The libation I would pour
Should be—peace with thine and mine
  And a health to thee, Tom Moore.

Certainly he spoke the truth when he said of Ireland:

I loved thee and thine, though thou art not my land.

The death has occurred at Algeciras, whither he had gone for the benefit of his health, of Mr. Henry Crewdson, a partner in the firm of Messrs. Watson, Crewdson, and Wadsworth, solicitors, of Nottingham. Mr. Crewdson, who was 71 years of age, came to Nottingham in 1890, and was a past President of the local branch of the Incorporated Law Society.

The President and Council of the Royal Academy have purchased, under the terms of the Chantrey Bequest, an oil painting, "The Princess Badroulbadour," by William Rothenstein. The picture will be on view at the forthcoming Summer Exhibition of the Royal Academy.

The British Government, through the British Ambassador in Paris, has expressed its gratitude to the French authorities for the sympathy and assistance afforded to British sufferers on the occasion of the railway accident at Collonges, near Lyons, a month ago.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

THE FAVOURITE SCRATCHED.

From Our Travelling Correspondent.
LONDON, Friday Night.

The City and Suburban Handicap is gradually shrinking to a pale shadow of its former importance. Yesterday Cos was taken out. That is a matter of minor importance, but Twelve Pointer was also withdrawn. This is rather a serious blow, for a good many people had stepped in and backed him, and he had always stood at a short price in the market until it became known that Pharos was an almost certain starter. Of the high weights only Pharos, Verdict, and Evander now remain, and should all go well with Pharos it would seem at present that on the day of the race he will be difficult to back at any price.

Very minor meetings at Plumpton and Southwell will occupy the attention of a small portion of the holiday-making British public to-morrow afternoon. It is likely that in the probable absence of Hawker ST. BERNARD may win the Preston Steeplechase Handicap at Plumpton; while with Boddam in reserve for an event on the flat PLAYFUL may win the Easter Hurdle Handicap.

PHŒNIX PARK.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

For their Easter Saturday meeting the Phœnix Park Club have arranged an attractive programme, and, granted a continuance of yesterday's fine weather, visitors to this popular venue should have a very enjoyable afternoon's sport. The course is in splendid condition, and the number of horses under orders indicates that fields of good strength will be seen out. Considerable interest will attach to the two-year-old events, of which there are a couple down for decision, and in both these several youngsters will be making a first appearance in public. DIRECTORS' PLATE AT TRALEE.

The Stewards of the I.N.H.S. Committee investigated the matter referred to them by the Stewards of the Tralee Meeting, and after hearing the evidence of Mr. J. P. Meaney, rider of Empress Forest, they upheld the decision of the local Stewards, and did not consider it necessary to take any further steps in the case.—("Irish Racing Calendar").

RACE DECLARED VOID.

FOLKESTONE

TAME SPORT.

SOUTHERN LASS WINS FOLKESTONE 'CHASE.

Again greatly favoured by the weather conditions, another excellent attendance was secured for the concluding stage of the Folkestone Easter steeplechasing fixture, but it cannot be stated that the racing panned out altogether well. Falls and refusals were again frequent, and it was plainly evident that not a few of the animals which were pulled out to "swell" the attenuated fields were feeling the effects of an arduous season.

Much surprise was expressed when Turning Point was saddled for the initial steeplechase; the poor brute appeared very tired when he dead-heated on the previous afternoon with Irlandais, and was certified unfit to contest a decider. For his race on Thursday there were numerous casualties, of which, however, Turning Point was not one. Ormskirk won the event in easy fashion. Emphatic and Frills had the Canterbury Handicap between them once that the steam was turned on, the former winning with something in hand.

The Folkestone Steeplechase was a tame affair, which Southern Lass won "anyhow." Peter Pax made a sad example of the opposition for the Stayers' Handicap, but he had a sorry lot to beat.

Another one-sided victory was that enjoyed by Perahara, but two of his five opponents were disposed of at the second fence.

To terminate a flat entertainment Arduous let the talent down by falling, and Uncle Jack further enriched the fielders by running Wallsend out of the finish for the Novices' Hurdle Race.

PLUMPTON

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

The programme for the Easter fixture at the Plumpton "Hippodrome" to-day is drawn up in a manner very similar to that which resulted so successfully last spring, 500 sovs. being allocated to the two principal races, 900 sovs. in all being distributed over the card of half a dozen events. It is unlikely that the fields will be of inordinate extent, but the number of requests for accommodation which have been made suggest quite an excellent entertainment. Selections:—

The Hon. Secretary (Mr. E. BOXING.

MEETING OF THE IRISH AMATEUR ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Irish Amateur Boxing Association was held at 5a College street (Aonach Tailteann Rooms), Mr. G. P. Fleming, in the absence of Mr. W. McDonald, presiding. The following members of the Council were also present:—D. Robinson, Commandant Colgan, Captain O'Brien, Messrs. J. J. Healy, W. Carroll, W. Sinclair, R. J. Cullen, D. Heron, and D. C. Maher, Hon. Sec.

Matters in connection with the forthcoming championships and the Aonach Tailteann trials were discussed at length, and it was decided to alter the date for holding same to Wednesday, June 4th, 1924, so as to enable a preliminary tournament to be held on Wednesday, the 7th of May. Commandant Colgan and Mr. J. J. Healy were deputed to arrange a venue for same. The tournament is being promoted with the object of sending a team to take part in the Olympic Games in Paris, when it is hoped the Irish representatives will uphold the honours of their country.

Mr. Maher regretted that he was unable to carry on the position of hon. secretary, and wished to tender his resignation. After several members had spoken regretting the fact that Mr. Maher was unable to continue, his resignation was accepted. On the motion of Mr. Heron, seconded by Mr. D. Robinson, and supported by those present, Mr. J. J. Healy was unanimously elected hon. secretary.

It was decided in the forthcoming tournament to have two open competitions—viz., heavy-weight and feather. A full announcement of the programme will be announced later.

The General Council of the I.A.B.A. issue the following warning to Irish amateur boxers:—Amateur boxers are strictly forbidden to take part in tournaments where professional boxers appear, and cannot take part in tournaments or competitions organised by any person or persons outside the jurisdiction of the Irish Amateur Boxing Association.

Final arrangements will be made at next meeting of County Dublin Board of the National A. and C. Association, to be held on 28th inst., after which entry forms, etc., will be sent to schools interested. At this meeting entries will also be received for Novice League, to be run during next three months, and, if possible, fixtures will be arranged then.

GAELIC GAMES.

THE ANNUAL CONGRESS.

COUNTY DUBLIN HURLING FINAL.

(By PAT O.)

For many years the annual Gaelic Congress has been held at the Mansion House on Easter Sunday. So spacious are the Committee Rooms beneath the Grand Stand at Croke Park, however, that it has been decided to hold the congress of the Gaels there to-morrow. The seating accommodation will be sorely taxed, for I expect the biggest attendance of delegates since the convention of 1910, which lasted for twelve hours. Great interest attaches to to-morrow's congress, because of the motion in the names of Dublin, Cork, Sligo and Wicklow Counties, for the abolition of the Exclusion Rule. This same Exclusion Rule has been a bone of contention since its institution. Few conventions have been held where some mention of it was not made, and sportsmen outside the G.A.A. always looked upon the rule with disfavour. For some considerable time there has been a growing feeling amongst thoughtful G.A.A. men, particularly in cities and towns, that the rule has served its purpose and is past its usefulness. In rural areas, however, strong, definite opinions have been expressed that the rule should be maintained. This is especially true of the North of Ireland, where Gaelic games are still struggling for existence. One Northern Chairman stated recently that the G.A.A. will cease to exist in Ulster within six months of the adoption of the open door policy. Circumstances are different in different areas, and perhaps a compromise may be the best way of meeting the present situation. If County Committees had an option of putting the rule in force, or otherwise, in their respective areas, we should all be in a better position to determine the effect of the open door policy by the time the next congress sits. Much of the opposition to any alteration of the rules comes from the belief in rural areas that city teams would be so considerably strengthened by the introduction of new blood in Gaelic football that the chances of country teams winning a championship would be jeopardised. The motions at to-morrow's congress can be discussed in a calm, constructive way, and will, I trust, only serve to cement the respect and friendship which exists between lovers of Gaelic pastimes in all parts of the island.

The balance sheet of the G.A.A., published during the week, gives evidence of the troubled time which the Association has encountered. The aftermath of political disturbances left its mark on the G.A.A. more definitely than on any other sporting organisation. It is gratifying to discover that the games are again being taken up heartily in many counties where they were almost dead since 1918. Four outstanding examples are Kerry, Wexford, Tipperary and Kilkenny. All four have won several All-Ireland Championships in the past, and, following a lean, dull period, fresh enthusiasm is evident at the moment. New clubs are springing to life everywhere, hurleys hidden away beneath the thatch are being recovered and used with all the old spirit; football boots and togs are being attended to and made fit for wear in the promising season of great inter-club, inter-county and inter-provincial matches, arranged for the summer and autumn. It is a genuine pleasure to see great football counties like Kerry and Wexford come into the limelight again.

The personnel of the G.A.A. controlling bodies is not likely to be seriously disturbed. The outgoing President, Mr. D. McCarthy, T.D., has served the full three years' term allowed him under the constitution, and is not eligible for re-election. Mr. McCarthy's abilities in an administrative and advisory capacity are well known. Prompt, decisive and resolute, is his rulings. Having a profound grip of essentials and life-long experience within the G.A.A. of all that it stands for, Mr. McCarthy was an admirable chairman, who had the implicit confidence of those who worked under him. Only two nominations have been made for his position as head of the G.A.A. These are Mr. P. Breen, of Wexford, and Mr. Clifford, of Limerick. Like Mr. McCarthy, both have long association with Gaelic games.

It seems a pity that Congress will be sitting during the decision of the Dublin Hurling Final, at Croke Park. This match between Kickhams and Young Irelands promises to be the most exciting hour's hurling of any metropolitan final for several years. Both semi-finals were decided by narrow margins after great games. Young Irelands scored the winning point against Colberts within a minute of the end, and the hour had almost expired when Kickham's spirited finish turned the tables on a powerful fifteen representing the Civic Guards. Feeling has run high in the respective camps, and both sides have undergone a thorough preparation. Kickhams have better facilities for evening training, and availed of the added hour of sunlight during the week. LONDON MINING MARKET UNCERTAIN.

ACTIVITY IN DE BEERS.

In the Mining Market De Beers Def. were active, changing hands freely around 12 13/16, but South Africans as a rule were dull on Johannesburg liquidations. Rand Mines were 2⅞; Brakpans, 3 5/16; Robinson Deep B, 31s. 6d.; Geduld, 3 3/16; and Langlaagtes, 20s. 3d. East Rands recovered to 8s. buyers, and Randfontein Estates to 22s. 6d. In Rhodesians, Chartered were 14s. 3d., and Tanganyikas Ord. 18s. 3d. In the Canadian-American group Selukwe rallied sharply to 10s. 6d., while Colombian Minings strengthened to 4s. 9d. Burma Corps. recovered to 11s. 9d. in Miscellaneous issues; while in Copper Shares, Rio Tintos rose to 33⅛. Tin descriptions were rather brighter, although the metal slipped back to £247 per ton. Tavoys were a good spot at 31s. on the dividend.

THE MONEY MARKET.

TREASURY BILLS CHEAPER.

As had been expected, the average at which the Treasury Bills had been sold this week is at a much cheaper price, the average being approximately 2⅞ p.c. dis. Offers for bills dated Tuesday to Saturday at £99 5s. 6d. receive 59 p.c. It is to be noted also that some Treasury 4 p.c. Bonds have been sold at a better price, offers at £94 13s. and above being accepted. Loanable Funds were very abundant, and, together with the Treasury Bills results, served to impart a weak tone to Discounts. Many quoted fine three months' bank bills at 3 p.c., but 2 15/16 appeared to be the effective rate. The new series of Treasuries were offered at 2 15/16 p.c. Short-dated paper was in better general demand, with Mays 2⅝ p.c., and Junes 2 13/16 p.c., sometimes 2⅞ p.c., while this week's Treasuries were done at 2⅞ p.c. early in the day. Day-to-day money was going on at 2½ p.c., fixtures at 2½ p.c., and money until Saturday and Tuesday was offering quite freely at 2 p.c. and under.

Gold remained at 94s. 11d. per oz. Silver was 1/16d. up for spot at 33 1/16d. per oz., but the quotation for forward delivery was unchanged at 33⅛d.

In the market for foreign exchange business was fairly brisk, but the degree of fluctuations was comparatively small. French francs were steadier at 69.70-69.80, with Belgium 81½-81¾. Pronounced weakness was again shown by Japanese yen, which were quoted 1s. 10 11/16d.-1s. 10⅞d. Rupees were steady at 1s. 4 13/16d.-1s. 4 27/32d. Sterling advanced to $4.35-$4.35⅛ New York, Holland being dull at 11.70-11.71, with Switzerland 24.72-24.74. Italy weakened to 98-98¼. Argentine dollars were a little higher at 41¼-41 5/16, as also were Brazilian milreis at 6 5/32-6 7/32. Spain was still quite good at 31.80-31.85, while Austria was dull at 305,000-312,000. STORE CATTLE SALES.

MESSRS. GAVIN LOW, LTD.

At Messrs. Gavin Low's store sale on Thursday last a seasonable lot of cattle was presented, but the parched state of the pastures still prevents life in competition. However, a fair clearance was effected with cross-Channel aid.

Values ruled higher for heifers than bullocks, of which there was a scarcity of top quality. The following quotations will be a guide to the prices current.

Horned bullocks and heifers made from £23 to £14, or from 55/- to 41/- per cwt. live weight; Pollies, from £21 15/- to £17, or 49/- to 42/- per cwt. Aberdeen-Angus and Hereford crosses, from £21 12/6 to £15, or from 56/- to 50/- per cwt.

MESSRS. GANLY, SONS AND CO.

There was again a very good inquiry for nice well-bred stock, more buyers being present. For some good horned and polled bullocks there was very good bidding at from £27 to £19 10/-, being about 55/- to 46/- per cwt. respectively. Cattle from 1 to 2 years were hard to place, and a few lots had to be passed over.

MESSRS. R. AND J. WILKINSON.

There were hardly so many customers for cattle as last week, chiefly due to the continued harsh weather, which is keeping pastures so backward, but any change for the better in this respect would give feeders more confidence. At the same time, there was a good demand for best lots of bullocks at about recent rates, but the rougher and plainer sorts were difficult to negotiate, and a large proportion were passed through. Heifers were not so eagerly bid for, but there were not so many lots of suitable sorts to attract buyers.

The following are some of the principal prices realised:—Bullocks, £23 10/- (48/6), £21 10/- (48/-), £21 5/- (49/-), £21 (46/6), £20 10/- (46/6), £18 5/- (45/-), £16 17/6 (46/-), £16 10/- (46/-), £16 10/- (45/-), £16 (41/6). Polled bullocks, £24 5/- (47/-), £22 (48/6), £21 5/- (49/6), £20 5/- (44/6), £17 15/- (45/-), £16 5/- (42/-). Cross-bred bullocks at from £18 to £22 10/- were from 47/- to 52/-, and heifers making £17 5/- to £20 5/- ranging from 45/- to 52/- per cwt.

THE HOUSE FOR MEN

A WORD TO THE SCEPTICAL MAN.

We often hear expressions of doubt of the wisdom of buying Ready-to-Wear Suits. "How," it is asked, "could a Suit that was not made for me fit as well as the suit that was?" The man who asks so forgets that there are 88 different sizes to choose from, and these 88 comprise short, medium, tall, very tall, short stout, stout, long stout, so that whether a man be short and erect, or tall and stooping, whether his shoulders are square or sloping, whether his waist measures are greater or less than his chest, whether his arms are long or short, it makes no difference. There are fittings for all. If a man can only realise that there are 14 chest measurements (33", rising each inch to 46"), with as many as 8 cross measures to each chest in the centre, and some extreme sizes, he will soon drop his scepticism, and when he knows that the best brains in Europe in the clothing business are engaged in designing models, which, because of mass production, cost a mere trifle, and when he sees, as he can see, the beautiful workmanship and quality of materials, he will buy a Suit and be thankful he did so.

THE HOUSE FOR MEN carries the biggest range of sizes and fittings in Men's Suits outside London.

THE HOUSE FOR MEN, in its first year in business, has proved its value to thousands of critical men.

THE HOUSE FOR MEN will be glad to convince the man "who cannot be fitted" that his ideas are all wrong. Just pay a call.

Lounge Suits, Sports Suits (4 pieces), Flannels for day and Tennis, Raincoats, Spring Tweed Overcoats, Outfitting.

The House for Men is "Men's Wear Specialists," and none quarrel with prices.

(UNLESS PREVIOUSLY DISPOSED OF BY PRIVATE TREATY.)

N.B.—TO FACILITATE INTENDING PURCHASERS AND SOLICITORS, PHOTOGRAPHS OF MOST OF THE PROPERTIES MAY BE SEEN AT OUR OFFICES, WHERE ALSO ALL INFORMATION MAY BE OBTAINED.

TINODE, BLESSINGTON, CO. WICKLOW

The entire Lands for Sale comprise about 686 STATUTE ACRES, of which ABOUT 400 IS IN HANDS, upon which there is a Mansion House (partially destroyed), situated on the Dublin and Blessington tramway line, about 12 miles from Dublin, convenient to Punchestown and the Curragh, and in the Kildare hunting district.

The Mansion House, which was partially destroyed by fire was a most attractive granite built residence, standing on high ground in a fine healthy position, enjoying extensive views of the Wicklow Mountains. As it stands at present the billiard room remains intact and the two bedrooms adjoining, also, in an enclosed courtyard, the excellent stabling, all built of granite and in good repair. There is in addition a very good steward's house and enclosed farmyard with stabling, tying for cattle, piggeries, forge, sawmill, etc., all built of granite; very good hay sheds, 12½ h.p. oil engine for electric light and power purposes. There is also a double fronted granite built cottage, with 3 apartments, used as a post office (Tinode Post Office), situated on the opposite side of the main road.

The Demesne and Residence is approached by a winding avenue, and has a very handsome granite built gate lodge at the entrance gates. An excellent walled-in garden and pleasure grounds adjoin the residence. A pure spring water supply by gravitation is available all the year round. The lands are good grazing lands, well fenced, watered, and divided, and a herd's house is on the estate. The present site and the intact portion of the residence is admirably adapted for reconstruction on a minor scale, the site and situation, together with the spring water supply, being unique. A large quantity of valuable timber, beech, ash, sycamore, oak, spruce, larch, and elm, is another feature, also some young plantations. The lands in hands are for the greater part suitable for grazing, for which a rent of £4 10s. per Irish acre can be obtained.

FREEHOLD ESTATE.

LOHORT CASTLE.

ABOUT 7 MILES FROM MALLOW.

STANDING IN DEMESNE GROUNDS OF ABOUT 224 ACRES

IN THE MIDST OF THE FAMOUS DUHALLOW HUNTING COUNTRY, AND WITHIN EASY REACH OF FISHING, SHOOTING AND THE NEW RACECOURSE.

N. FLOOD DAVIN and SON have been favoured with instructions to SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION, at their SALEROOM, MALLOW, on WEDNESDAY, 23rd APRIL, 1924, at 12 o'clock unless previously disposed of by Private Treaty, the above attractive Property, containing 224 Acres or thereabouts held in Fee-simple.

The Property will be Sold in one lot or three lots, as follows:—

LOT 1.—Containing 67a. 2r. 30p., or thereabouts, adjoining the Main road, intersected by the principal avenue, and by the avenue from Cecilstown. There are two disused Lodges on this Lot; about 10 Acres very good Land, the remainder being cut-away wood, affording very good rough grazing.

LOT 2.—Four Fields north of the Castle, containing 51a. 2r. 27p., or thereabouts, with which will be Sold the Part of the Courtyard south of the dividing wall in yard

LOT 3.—Contains 104a. 2r. 24p., more or less, with Lohort Castle, Redoubt, part of the Courtyard north of the dividing wall, and large Hay Shed.

THE REDOUBT (AFTER THE FIRE).

PARTICULARS:

The magnificent Buildings on this fine old property were recently burnt, but the walls are practically all sound. The walls of the Redoubt (built about 1870) are of cut limestone. It could be restored at a moderate cost and make a lovely Residence.

The walls of the Out-offices and Dwellings in yards going with Lots 2 and 3 are believed to be all sound and so extensive that they could be converted into two homesteads at comparatively small cost.

The Lands are well fenced, watered and suitably divided.

There is a quantity of valuable Timber on each Lot.

There is in Lot 3 a splendid walled-in Garden (about 1 acre), in good order, and well stocked with fruit trees.

As a whole, this Property should prove most attractive, while, as lotted, it would make three desirable holdings.

Maps showing the Lots can be inspected at the Auctioneers' Office.
